

CHIANG WAS REGARDED AS FOREMOST LEADER

race through the instrumentality of a government "of, for, and by the people."

"Our immortal leader, Sun Yat Sen," spoke President Chiang, "has laid the foundation for a greater China—a China in which the ignorance and impotence of the past centuries will be supplanted by good government and modern development. The national constitution written by Dr. Sen is an unsurpassed document of democratic principles. On it China can go forward to her rightful place in the world family of nations."

Then President Chiang added—significantly it is now shown through his death through tragedy—"our greatest and most vital task now is to train leaders of vision and usefulness to carry forward our program of progress."

Housecleaning First.

"Democratic government, when it assumes the reins in China," President Chiang continued, "was faced with such a tremendous task that there was no thought on our part to proceed to the upbuilding of the nation in a material way, or the improvement of its standing among the other nations of the earth until we had a thorough housecleaning among ourselves."

"We assumed the duties of government when the nation was at its lowest ebb and our every step from the very beginning was bitterly fought on the one side by the military power of the old imperialists and on the other by the money from Soviet Russia which was poured into China by the Bolsheviks."

"Until we had put an end to the threats from the Militarists there could not be a really unified China, and there was no need of attempting constructive work until unification had been effected. With the power of the Militarists still unbroken, there would have been the constant probability of everything done being immediately undone."

"This putting down or bringing into the Kuomintang fold of the military leaders, whose personal ambitions have been the greatest stumbling block in China's progress, was no easy task and one which certainly could not be accomplished in a brief length of time. It must be remembered that the feudal system of China has existed for countless centuries and such a system cannot be entirely done away with in a few days or months. It has taken years and China has undoubtedly suffered during this period during which we have been striving to make such eliminations and adjustments as would permit us to build a firm foundation upon which to erect the structure of Chinese progress and prosperity."

"The fact that China has been unable to develop leaders of integrity and vision is the chief reason that Chiang Kai-shek, a man who can be listed among the great oriental leaders of history, has died as the result of an assassin's bullet."

"This bullet was either fired, or its firing was inspired by, Chang Hsueh-liang, former ruler of Manchuria—and a man as typical of the selfish, short-sighted, and undependable Chinese provincial leader as Chiang Kai-shek was of the far-sighted leaders who have brought other nations forward in other parts of the world."

Chang a Dope Addict.

Only three days before the little group of American editors were the guests of President Chiang at breakfast in Peking they had been the dinner guests in Mukden of Chang Hsueh-liang. In striking contrast to the simplicity with which President Chiang met the group were the difficulties encountered in arriving at Chang's official residence.

For several blocks surrounding Chang's home the streets were lined with soldiers—not in honor of the American editors but representing the permanent policing arrangement. The park in which the residence was situated was jammed with other soldiers. Even the corridors of the magnificent mansion were lined with officers.

The American party, once within the residence, was informed that Marshal Chang would be unable to shake hands with them on account of indisposition but that he would have to the party. Later it was discovered that this was because the Marshal was a drug addict and his arm was badly swollen from an overdose of his favorite dope.

He greeted his guests from the background of a half-dozen military officers and as many secretaries. Half of bird's egg soup, shark fins and 100-year-old eggs, the marshal excused himself and left the room.

Later in a magnificent drawing room he presented himself long enough to pose for the picture which accompanied this article, incident to the "shooting" of which the overzealousness of the young Russian photographer who took the photograph came near bringing tragedy. Determined that there should be no failure to get a good picture the young photographer overloaded his flashlight gun with powder and it went off with the sound of a cannon.

The marshal leaped to his feet, as pale as a ghost, and soldiers poured into the room from every door and window, arms in hand and apparently willing to first make war with the "foreign devils" and investigate afterwards.

Chang Hsueh-liang succeeded to the dictatorship of the four large provinces which comprised Manchuria at that time, upon the assassination of his father, the original Chiang, who started life as an illiterate bandit.

The elder Chiang, despite his lack of education, had traits of character which made him a great leader—traits which his weak and effeminate son failed to inherit. Chiang leaves one wife, Chang has several wives and concubines.

Thus the tragic nature of Chiang's death is emphasized by the fact that it is caused by treachery on the part of a man who, in that respect, is typical of so many of China's leaders. As was said in the editorial, Chiang was second in importance in all China only to President Chiang. His provinces were the richest in China and his revenues were the greatest. His armies were the only Chinese armies which were modernly equipped.

Chiang Befriended Killer.

When in 1931 Chang went too far in his arrogance towards the Japanese and the Japanese army dispersed his soldiers, took over his capital, and sent him practically a penniless refugee to China proper, he was not only given asylum by President Chiang but assigned to a position of honor and trust in the Nanking government. Since then he has held the pick of the posts at the disposal of Chiang Kai-shek. For the past several months he has been in charge of the Chinese armies, combatting the influence of Communism in western China.

Reports of the abduction of Chiang and his assassination indicate that he was lured to his fate by the man in whom he had a right to place the greatest confidence.

General Chiang lacked much of the culture and the charm of manner typical of highly educated Chinese but for these lacks he made up by a sincerity of purpose, an intense devotion to the welfare of his nation and the advancement of his people, and by a genius for military leadership which has received world-wide recognition.

His death is a stunning blow to China—but even more of a tragedy in that it reflects the trait in Chinese leadership which has blocked the path of progress at regular intervals since the establishment of a democratic form of government. One after another, leaders who have arisen to the promise of better times in the future for the people as a result of their inspired efforts have fallen at the hands of assassins.

The new leader may arise in Nanking to take the place of Chiang Kai-shek, but he is not yet on the horizon. Certainly it will not be Chang Hsueh-liang.

Many Need Japanese.

If no such leader arises then it will mean that the Chinese national government will revert to the conditions which existed under the empire, with every war lord dominant in his own particular territory.

Should such a condition arise, there is little doubt that sooner or later Japan would be forced to step in to insure conditions of law and order.

Perhaps, after all, that might prove the best solution of the tragic plight of the Chinese people.

In five years' time the new state of Manchoukuo has, under Japanese rule, become one of the most modernly developed areas of the world, with fine schools, transportation system, hospitals, hotels, a sound currency, stable government and prosperous farmers and businessmen.

Those are the vital needs of China and they are the things which Chiang Kai-shek vainly sought to furnish. However they are secured, they represent objectives that must be obtained before the lot of the Chinese becomes less hard.

NANKING PLACES CHINA UNDER MILITARY RULE

er a new Chinese revolution would provoke Japanese intervention and in turn, the explosive tension in the Far East.

U. S. Watches Anxiously.

While the United States State Department was studying intently the development of China's tragic crisis, authorities reiterated that the United States was abiding by its policy of non-interference in other nations' affairs. It was indicated the government did not consider other than routine steps to protect Americans in China necessary at this time.

In Nanking the former Melting Soong, the Wellesley-educated wife of General Chiang Kai-shek, who had steered herself for days to expect the worst, collapsed and wept in bitter agony when news came of her husband's reported assassination.

In Peiping authorities of the American-endowed Peiping Union Medical College recalled that some years ago Marshal Chang had been treated there for the opium habit.

"He may have reverted to the drug to give him courage for such a horrible crime," said one.

CHANG BROADCASTS FOR SUCH CHINA EXECUTED.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 16.—(Wednesday)—Execution of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, announced in a broadcast by his captor, the revolting war lord, Marshal Chang, spread panic and unrest throughout China today.

The reported killing of China's strong man and several of his generals brought fear of renewed civil war and chaos in the absence of a powerful leadership. If this occurred it would be a disaster to the country. For a decade Chiang had been the big man and main reliance of his country in its struggle for peace within and protection against Japan from without.

Some Doubt Remains.

Chiang, active head of the Nanking government, was killed, the broadcast said, at Sianfu, Shensi province, where Marshal Chang seized him Saturday and held him to enforce a demand that China make war on Japan.

Chinese who heard the broadcast said Marshal Chang assumed a dictatorial role. It was believed that he was attributed to a desire to regain public plaudits and become a national hero. Those circles pointed to his radio broadcast, in which he said he was slain because he would not declare war on Japan as evidence of his warped logic.

The announcement that the nation's outstanding leader had been killed plunged China into deep grief and horror. In Nanking many Chinese said Chiang Kai-shek cannot be replaced.

It was said that the real test of how far he had succeeded in reunifying China would come now when it must be seen whether China has been so thoroughly able to crush the time the course of regeneration without Chiang Kai-shek's guiding hand.

Others Reported Slain.

Marshal Chang's announcement was in apparent conflict with a message received by the Nanking authorities earlier from W. H. Donald, its Australian-born adviser, to the effect he had seen the generalissimo alive and in good spirits. However, Donald did not say when he had been permitted to see General Chiang. The Australian had flown to the Shensi capital to negotiate for the generalissimo's release and apparently had returned to Loyang, Honan province.

Broadcasting from Sianfu, scene of his amazing coup of last week, Marshal Chang one-time war lord of Manchuria, said several of General Chiang's chief lieutenants, including men high in the councils of the Nan regime, also had been killed.

These included General Chen Cheng, vice minister of war and chief of staff; General Chiang Tso-pin, minister of the interior and former ambassador to Japan; General Chiang Fang-chen, and others not named.

Most of China was sleeping when the "young marshal's" announcement came over the air, but it intensified the panic already general as a result of days of alarming and conflicting rumors about the fate of the nation's chief figure.

Recalled Former Cruelty.

The message recalled an earlier episode in Marshal Chang's fantastic career. With the cold and calculating cruelty which his announcement indicated he had used at Sianfu, Chang "executed" two of his followers at Mukden seven years ago.

One was General Yang Yung-tung, one-time chief of the Manchurian army and chief of the young Chiang Kai-shek's government. General Yang and a companion were shot to death in the famous "Red Room" of the governor's palace at Mukden early in the morning of January 11, 1929, after they had been invited there by a young Chinese for a game of mah jong.

Chang asserted General Yang was plotting to seize leadership of the Manchurian regime.

The reported killing of the multiple assassinations at Sianfu occurred soon after the Nanking generalissimo was seized at the old springs near Sianfu in mid-July. Chang, however, did not say when or how the killings were done or state definitely his own part therein.

The announcement provoked a horrified reaction throughout the orient.

General Chiang, sometimes called the "George Washington of China," generally has been admired for his patriotism and devotion to the nation's regeneration, his modesty and self-effacing character.

The announcement proclaimed his death, on the other hand, has lost much in public esteem since he lost Manchuria to the Japanese. In circles close to the Nanking government, the news was attributed to a desire to regain public plaudits and become a national hero. Those circles pointed to his radio broadcast, in which he said he was slain because he would not declare war on Japan as evidence of his warped logic.

The announcement that the nation's outstanding leader had been killed plunged China into deep grief and horror. In Nanking many Chinese said Chiang Kai-shek cannot be replaced.

It was said that the real test of how far he had succeeded in reunifying China would come now when it must be seen whether China has been so thoroughly able to crush the time the course of regeneration without Chiang Kai-shek's guiding hand.

NANKING DECLARES MARTIAL LAW.

NANKING, Dec. 16.—(Wednesday)—Confronted by a grave national crisis growing out of the announcement of the death of General Chiang Kai-shek, the government of China proclaimed martial law through the republic today.

A "grave situation arising from multiple assassinations" was the reason for this sweeping action, officials said. They referred to the broadcast announcement of Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang that his prisoners, the Nanking chief and several of his ranking generals, had been killed at Sianfu, Shensi.

The government prohibited all demonstrations or political movements. Regardless of the fate of General Chiang, the Nanking regime made known its determination to crush the rebellion in Shensi, led by Marshal Chang.

ing field, giving rise to conjecture. Wallis Simpson might fly here for Christmas, the ex-King of England strolled from the castle of Baron Eugène Daniel Rothschild with his golf clubs.

The Duke tried a few swings, did a bit of putting, then gave up in disgust, miserably with aching ears and a throbbing head.

The earache was an old affliction. The Duke had a cocktail and some wine at dinner last night, but his attributed his indisposition chiefly to "circumstances."

"The Duke isn't especially ill," Baron Rothschild said. "Is the Duke entirely well?"

"He cannot be entirely well under the circumstances. 'Is the Duke entirely well?'"

A chateau attendant characterized Edward's indisposition as "not so much illness as a nervous, emotional 'letdown' after the emotional events of the past month, leading to his renunciation of the British throne so he can wed Mrs. Simpson."

That the Duke expected quickly to rally to the Vienna night life he enjoys was indicated by plans for his attendance Monday at the city's oldest theater.

Much of the day the Duke spent in bed and he spent some time dictating letters to his secretary and going through dispatches delivered in fat leather pouches.

It was indicated he was preparing correspondence for his beloved Mrs. Simpson to be sent to Cannes, and endeavoring to make definite plans for his and her future.

CROWDS GATHER AS WALLIS SHOPS.

CANNES, France, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Wallis Warfield Simpson got a big bouquet of flowers from the mayor today and an apology to the crowds which gathered about her during a shopping tour.

Mayor Pierre Nouveau sent a note along with the flowers expressing regret her visit had not been as peaceful as she might have desired and said he hoped the remainder of her stay here would be more quiet.

Detectors were called today to disperse the crowds which gathered after Mrs. Simpson, accompanied by a bodyguard and her host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Hermann Rogers, entered a store along La Croisette, Cannes' fashionable waterfront promenade.

A few passers-by recognized her as she purchased hosiery, gloves and handkerchiefs. Word spread rapidly and within a few minutes more than 100 persons surrounded the shop.

Her chauffeur drove the Rogers and returned with detectives who escorted Mrs. Simpson and the Rogerses to the car from a back room in the shop, temporarily a hiding place from the crowd.

C. J. Turner, operator of a refreshment stand at 445 Fair street, identified Turner and Colton as the men who robbed him on November 18, in front of 465 Fair street, of $7.50.

R. H. O'Neil, operator of a gas station at 841 Edgewood avenue, identified Turner as the man who robbed him on November 20 of $200.

Turner, the supposed ring leader, is said to be an escaped convict. All the suspects denied any participation in any of the holdups described by the victims.

The seven were returned to jail after the lineup.

EDWARD AND WALLIS REVEAL INSIDE STORY

Indirect criticism of the King's private life is more being perfectly obvious to King Edward and his enemies in the British press and his opponents in public affairs were smacking their lips in obvious relief of his imminent embarrassment.

Publicly and privately, the King of England was under an almost unbearable strain that night and yet the scene that confronted me in the comfortable—almost cozy—living room was as calm and serene as the picture around any British fireside.

I had visited Fort Belvedere at the King's invitation. I had known Wallis Simpson since she was 18 years old. We had mutual friends in Washington and Virginia. Our families had been on friendly terms for a century.

When the story of her romance with the King began to appear in the American papers, in an increasing flood and with many obvious inaccuracies, I called her to my study and asked her if it were in any way possible.

She sent me a cablegram in reply, asking me if I could confer with her at London. I arranged my affairs as quickly as possible and took the next boat to Southampton.

Our boat anchored at Southampton Monday morning, and reached London in mid-afternoon. The night was to leave behind the American newspapers, with their glaring headlines about the King and Mrs. Simpson, and find myself at the very center of this world-wide interest with not a line of the story in the British press.

Called by King.

Mrs. Simpson was not at 16 Cumberland when I arrived, but she was at her aunt, Mrs. Bessie Merryman, whom I had known in Washington, answered the telephone. She invited me to the house for dinner.

It was a pleasant meal. Mrs. Merryman and I chatted about news from home and about world affairs in general. But there was no discussion of the most absorbing topic of the hour—the King and Mrs. Simpson.

One that had been in my mind and must have been in her niece's friendship with the British sovereign.

After I left, Mrs. Merryman went to Fort Belvedere for the night and word came to me the next morning—Tuesday—that the King wished me to have dinner there that evening.

Mrs. Simpson, who had been at Fort Belvedere since Saturday, The Bronx of newspapers that gathered daily outside 16 Cumberland terrace had made it impossible for her to remain there longer, although she was frequently reported back in her own home during the next few days, she did not return to London until her departure for France.

Seldom smiled. These facts concerning my own movements are being related only to establish the background for my subsequent talks with Mrs. Simpson and the King, who were both in the room late that afternoon with Mrs. Merryman.

We arrived at the King's residence shortly before 7 p. m. and I was ushered at once into the living room, where Wallis Simpson was waiting inside an open fire on the hearth.

The red-coated servant announced me at the door and Mrs. Simpson came forward smiling, her hands extended in a graceful greeting.

She was as I remembered her, except that she seemed to have ripened and matured. The Wallis Simpson I recalled was carefree and laughing, careless that never showed on the surface.

She was wearing a sleeveless black brocade gown, cut quite high and square in the neck, close fitting and falling away in a tiny train. Her hands were bare—she very rarely wears rings. A lovely bracelet of diamonds and rubies adorned her wrist and rubies in long, old-fashioned settings were in her ears. Two orchids were fastened to her waist.

Wanted News of U. S. She sank into an arm chair in front of the fire and I straddled a bench on the hearth.

The King, she told me, would arrive from Buckingham palace in about an hour. First of all she wanted to know about the personal news from home, about her friends in Washington and Baltimore and what they had been doing since she last heard of them on Aunt Bessie's arrival.

"Have you seen Robin yet?" she asked, referring to a youthful cousin of hers who is attending a private school near Oxford. I told her no, that I was going to see him Wednesday.

After she had heard about her closest acquaintances, her next concern was about the unfavorable publicity she had been receiving in the American press. Anxious friends had been sending her clippings constantly. Almost from the day her name first appeared in connection with the King.

She was bruised and sick at heart over the attitude of the newspapers in her native land.

"I just want you to tell me why it is," she said. "With all little knowledge of the real situation as they possess, it seems utterly unfair to me for them to have drawn the picture that they have."

Letters from Cranks. I did my best to explain, assuring her that I thought that at least 70 per cent of the stories that had appeared in American newspapers had been favorable to her. It is fair to say that no doubt most of the clippings that reached her would probably have been antagonistic and hostile.

A few of them, in fact, had come from friends in America who not only were anxious to cause her as much mental suffering as possible, but also threatened physical violence unless she gave up her friendship with the King. Those came not only from British subjects in America who resented the King's association with a commoner, but also from Anglophobes who felt that her close friendship with the King was a disgrace.

"It isn't that I'm afraid of the threats like that," she explained, "but I'm sure that people feel that way. If they knew the truth I'm sure they'd feel differently."

I assured her that everything would be right and asked her if she would tell me about her future plans. She smiled and shook her head.

Plans Up to King. "No," she said, "you'd better discuss that with the King. I told her about the values of publicity. The most popular man in America today, I explained, was President Roosevelt, who had made the most of the feeling of the American people that they wanted to know a public figure intimately. On the other hand, there was the contrast of Colonel Lindbergh, who had every opportunity to become one of the most beloved figures in his country but had become instead one of the most misunderstood because he shunned publicity of any sort."

One of the secrets of President Roosevelt's popularity, I said, was his custom of addressing the nation at fairly frequent intervals in his fireside chats on the radio. I spoke of his splendid radio voice.

"Ah," she said, "the King has the most beautiful radio voice in the world. Her eyes shone with pride as she said it, and there was a different note in her voice. 'Have you heard him talk?' she asked."

"No," I said, "I have never had that privilege."

The butler was clearing his throat at the doorway to announce in a ringing voice: "His Majesty." (Copyright, Chicago Tribune.)

mittee tomorrow to discuss next year's appropriation for his department.

Momentous decisions remained for Mr. Roosevelt's own attention.

In the 25 days he spent away, seeking to strengthen the fabric of world peace and establishing a good claim to the title of "most traveled president," groups which supported him for re-election piled high demands for action.

Labor leaders and some businessmen have advocated a revival of federal industrial legislation along the lines of the outlawed NIRA.

Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, urged a bill to require federal licenses for corporations, and demands for a constitutional amendment to give congress clear-cut authority over industry and farming have come from other quarters.

Budget Awaited.

Mr. Roosevelt's budget for the fiscal year beginning next July 1 soon must be ready for congress. Hound up in it are the troublesome questions of taxes and relief.

In addition to these major issues, the President shortly will fill a number of important administrative vacancies.

On his train en route back to Washington to meet Mr. Roosevelt issued this statement about his trip to Buenos Aires:

"A very delightful trip has come to an end. I am most especially happy by the continuing good news from the Inter-American Conference for the maintenance of peace. I have been in full communication with Secretary of State Hull and agree with him that the unceasing efforts on the part of the members of the conference who represent the 21 American republics justify the highest hopes of us all."

Conference in Session. "The conference is still in session and this is not the time to analyze its specific accomplishments. But we have every reason for gratitude for the far-reaching and historic accomplishments already in sight at Buenos Aires. The conference should be an inspiration to all the peoples of the Americas and an example to the rest of the world. Good neighbors we are; good neighbors we shall remain."

In sharp contrast to his send-off November 18, the President's homecoming at Charleston, S. C., was without fanfare. It was as he wished. At Buenos Aires he had lost through sudden death his old comrade and attendant, August "Gus" Gennerich.

Gennerich's body was brought back on the cruiser Indianapolis with the President. Just before the chief executive, dressed in a light gray business suit and gray hat, stepped ashore at 7:30 a. m. (Atlanta time) in a cold rain, a huge crane lowered the body and an example to the rest of the world, the special train.

Brief services will be conducted tomorrow morning in the White House. James Roosevelt, eldest son who accompanied the President and acted as his secretary on the visit to Brazil, Argentina, Uruguay and Trinidad, will accompany Gennerich's body to New York city, where Masonic burial services will be conducted.

VELVETEEN OPERATORS SAY JAP COMPETITION THREATENS EXTINCTION

Matter of Months, Not Years, Tariff Commission Is Advised.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Japanese competition in the cotton velveteen industry was described today by Lawrence Richmond, treasurer of the Crompton Company, West Warwick, R. I., as "destroying our industry."

Richardson, who said he spoke for 11 velveteen and corduroy factories with plant investments aggregating $20,000,000, told the tariff commission "it is a question only of months, not of years, as to how long the velveteen industry will exist."

He testified the average cost of American medium grade plain back velveteen was 58.84 cents and the Japanese 35 cents per yard after payment of duty.

James W. Evans, representing the Japanese Importers' Association, of New York, however, said Japanese imports were of inferior quality to the American product.

The commission took the plea for the duties under advisement.

ADVANCING BUSINESS WITH PRICE INCREASES FORECAST BY AYRES

Economist Declares We Are To Live Under Managed Economy.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Colonel Leonard P. Ayres, business statistician and vice president of the Cleveland Trust Company, found signs today pointing to 1937 as a business year better than 1936.

Wholesale and retail prices and the cost of living probably will advance, he said. He predicted increases would not be very large.

"We are at present," he said, "well along in the process of recovery. And the rest of the world is still farther along."

"The conclusion seems justified that general business will be better in 1937 than it has been in 1936 in spite of the unrest that prevails in much of the world, the labor difficulties which may develop here, and the new legislation that the congress may enact."

The economist said "it seems clear that we are destined to live under a system of managed economies for a good many years to come, and quite regardless of the outcomes of the next several presidential elections."

"This conclusion seems warranted in part by the fact that governments seldom voluntarily relinquish powers that they have gradually gained and have become accustomed to exercising. For the rest it seems warranted by the even more potent fact that our people have become convinced that the national government can control economic conditions, and so the people have decided that henceforth the government must solve their economic problems."

Colonel Ayres predicted a continued increase in building construction next year and a larger volume of freight traffic.

Lindley Camp Offers Giant Tuna To Aid Ten Opportunity Families

"Who'll buy my fish? Fine fresh fish for sale! What am I bid?"

The Constitution, on behalf of General Lindley Camp, head of the state military department, is offering for sale, this morning, a magnificent tuna fish which weighs only 800 pounds. The bidding has opened and anyone who'd like to become proprietor of 800 pounds of fish, in one piece, can do so by outbidding rivals.

The first bid, received from Manager L. O. Moseley, of the Wincoff hotel, is for $25. Anybody raise this bid? Come on, fellows, surely you are not going to let Lasso Moseley get away with 800 pounds of fish for a mere 25 bucks.

"Going, going, going—Do I hear any bidders?"

There is, of course, a story behind the fish and a reason for this typographical auction.

In the first place, the fish was sent to General Camp as a present from a friend, after it had been caught off the coast of Nova Scotia.

Not having an immediate need for the piscatorial giant, and not possessing a frying pan large enough to cook such a creature, General Camp put it in cold storage, where it can be seen now by any prospective purchasers.

Then came the annual Ten Opportunities campaign of The Constitution, and General Camp had a bright idea. He'd get rid of his fish, help to feed a lot of hungry folk and the money paid for the fish will be turned over to the Opportunity Fund by General Camp.

Incidentally, General Camp has received a number of recipes for cooking tuna fish since first publication of the story of his big gift. And he'll throw in the recipes, turning them over to the lucky bidder.

"I'm offered $25? Will anyone make it $30? Going at $25. Going, going, going—

"Mr. Al Belle Isle, the well-known transportation tycoon, offers $30. Thank you, Mr. Belle Isle. "Do I hear any more bids? Who'll make it $35? A magnificent fish, gentlemen. A fish to prove every fisherman's yarn you ever dreamed. Cheap at 10 times the price. Come on, sports. Who'll make it $35? Going at $30—going—going—"

DEKALB BIG BROTHERS PLAN SALE ON SUNDAY

tain sector and Waldo Cagle is taking care of things out at Avondale.

More than 70 persons attended the second DeKalb rally of the season and heard reports from various leaders before laying final plans for the "big push" of the campaign. Mrs. C. R. McQuown, in charge of investigating families, told the DeKalb workers how badly many families need help this year, and Mr. C. L. Edwards, who heads the DeKalb purchasing committee, declared the Big Brothers in that section would be able to supply the needy families with great baskets of food, clothing, toys and all else that goes to make up a real Christmas for parents and their children.

One of the leading spirits in DeKalb Big Brothers activities is W. Paul Estes, who each year sells copies of the Big Brothers edition—lots of them—from his wheelchair. Mr. Estes this year is one of the paper sale captains and promises to go over the top in his sales for needy families again this year.

Broadcast Tonight.

All over the Greater Atlanta area come reports of rapid-fire Big Brother progress. The public will be told about this work and the generous response being made to it in a radio broadcast over station WGSP at 8:15 o'clock tonight. The program will be under the direction of General Chairman Frank Fling and Robert A. Farner, chairman of the fourth annual Big Brothers charity ball.

Other radio programs are being presented by the Big Brothers each night of the week at 8:15 o'clock over station WATL.

Tomorrow night is the night of the big charity ball at the Shrine mosque, when Atlantans will enjoy top-notch entertainment in a big surprise program, along with a gala dance to the swing music of Hal Mayfield and his orchestra. The dance starts at 9 o'clock, the tickets are $1 a couple and the good that money will do the desperately needy families of the city cannot be estimated.

Last Rally Friday.

The last big general rally of the Big Brothers of 1936 will be held at 8 o'clock Friday night at the Big Brothers headquarters, 101 Walton street, N. W. All majors, captains and volunteer workers are urged to attend the rally and join in the plans for the biggest Big Brothers paper sale of all times.

Preceding this rally, a luncheon meeting of the general Big Brothers committee will be held at the Ansley hotel at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow, when advance plans for the paper sale will be laid.

Three separate division rallies will be held tonight in various parts of Greater Atlanta. In the ninth ward, Big Brothers will meet with Major Guy O. Guest at 7:30 o'clock at the Greenfield Masonic lodge, 368 Moreland avenue, N. E.

In College Park. College Park Big Brothers will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the city hall to hear final plans for the drive in that section from Major Tom Tiller.

And the colored Christmas fund workers will hold their rally at 8 o'clock tonight also, at their headquarters, 171 Auburn avenue, under the leadership of the Rev. J. H. Langston.

Come early tomorrow night to the big annual charity ball at the Shrine mosque and don't miss any of the fun—or the satisfaction of knowing you have helped in a material way to make Christmas happy for someone else.

LEWIS BLOC CRITICIZED IN RESOLUTION PASSED BY CARPENTERS' UNION

Motion Declares Ideas of Industrial Organization To Be "Mad."

LAKELAND, Fla., Dec. 15.—(AP)—American carpenters enthusiastically adopted resolutions here today sharply criticizing John L. Lewis and declaring his plans for industrial unionism "were mad ideas which have been tried before, and the efforts of brighter men than Lewis showed that it was fallacy."

The declaration was approved just before President William L. Hutcheson surprised many delegates by declaring the 23d annual convention of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America adjourned.

Minimum Voted.
Earlier, the convention voted down a recommendation of its constitution committee to fix a 60-cent hourly minimum wage scale for mill workers.

President Hutcheson said the executive board would set wage scales for each mill as agreements expired and mill owners applied for renewals.

The resolutions committee in the report said it was "Unanimous in condemning the efforts of Lewis and his wild dreams of industrial unionism."

"Under this system that he is advocating, it would be the best politicians who would get the work and not the men skilled in their crafts."

"We feel that our craft unions, although not perfect as yet, are years ahead of Lewis' mad ideas, which have been tried before, and efforts of brighter men than Lewis showed that it was fallacy."

"If work got slack in the coal mines, and it is bound to with the advent of oil burners, Lewis' coal miners would in a short time be following crafts for a livelihood, to the exclusion of the men who spent the best years of their lives to learn the business."

"Therefore, as above stated, the committee concurs in the resolution and urges our general executive board to contact all local unions in the brotherhood in an effort to show our membership the fallacy of such a dreamy movement."

To Meet in 1940.
The next meeting was set for 1940 in Indianapolis unless a general referendum vote shows the members prefer to gather again in Lakeland where the carpenters' home is located.

A plea of northwestern sawmill and timber workers for assistance in organizing their section was greeted during the convention with assurances of support, but the session adjourned without action on a question of whether the new members would be given full voting power at union conventions.

Ritual changes, designed to impress upon new members the brotherhood's disapproval of Communism, were authorized.

Officers and the executive board will remain in Lakeland for several days to dispose of details left unsettled by the convention.

FAIR SKIES TO RETURN TO ATLANTA TODAY

Fair weather will return to Atlanta about noon today, according to the weathermen who also forecast, after that, a few days of clear skies and temperatures that they describe as "not severely cold."

"The weather should improve during the afternoon," said George W. Mindling, chief forecaster. "The rainstorm that visited the city came up from the gulf, passed over Mississippi, Alabama, Florida and Georgia and is moving on out to the Atlantic ocean."

Today's temperatures, according to the forecasters, will range between 38 and 50 degrees. Yesterday the range was between 40 and 46 degrees, the slow, steady rain all day holding down the mercury. The rain was expected to continue all night and into this morning.

When Will America See Another Depression?

Late in November Jesse Jones, RNC chairman, warned the public that "economic preparedness could well be a part of our national policy."

On December 4 James Landis, chairman of the SEC, warned bankers against speculation that might lead to another boom and another collapse.

Herbert Hoover recently cautioned: "The United States is headed for another debacle like that of 1929 unless steps are taken to stop it."

Polling a representative cross-section of American men and women in every state in the Union, the Institute asked:

"Do you think there will be another serious depression? If so, in what year?"

The answer to that question will appear in America Speaks in next Sunday's

ALEXANDER OUTLINES RESETTLEMENT PLANS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—A "two-fold" program for the Resettlement Administration, organized under Rexford G. Tugwell, was outlined today by Dr. W. W. Alexander, acting administrator.

Alexander said the agency was now occupied with a long-term land program community development, rural rehabilitation and farm debt adjustment, in addition to "emergency aid" for farm families "hit by drought, floods, forest fires and other unforeseen disasters."

"We have made many mistakes," said Alexander, but added that the record of 18 months operation "speaks for itself."

Alexander said resettlement had assisted 950,000 farm families or about 4,000,000 persons.

NEW SENATE INQUIRY ON VOTE COERCION SET

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(UP)—The senate campaign expenditures committee tonight ordered its chief investigator, Louis Glavis, to make a new inquiry into charges that several business firms in Pennsylvania's 20th congressional district sought to intimidate employees into voting the Republican ticket in the national election.

At the same time it dismissed numerous similar complaints against several large Ohio and Pennsylvania corporations.

It also absolved Governor H. Styles Bridges, of New Hampshire, of charges that he spent too much money defeating former Senator George H. Moses in the Republican primary race for United States senator.

'WOLF' IGNATIUS LUPO OPENS FREEDOM FIGHT IN U. S. COURT TODAY

Notorious Underworld Character Claims Illegal Detention in Federal Prison.

"Lupo, the Wolf," who came back to the Atlanta Federal penitentiary early this year after 16 years' absence on parole, starts another fight for freedom in federal district court today.

Lupo's real name is Ignatius Lupo, but it was as the "Wolf" that he came into international disrepute in New York more than 25 years ago as the leader of a notorious "Black Hand" gang.

In 1910 he was seized and tried for his underworld terrorism in the east and was sentenced to 30 years' imprisonment.

In 1920 President Harding paroled him. He left the United States, but early this year federal officers learned he was back in New York, building himself again in crime circles in that city.

He was seized and returned to the penitentiary as a violator of his parole. Now he has filed a habeas corpus action, demanding his freedom on the ground he is being illegally imprisoned.

Leads Shrine Ceremonial

ROY MATHER.

YAARAB CEREMONIAL AND PARADE TONIGHT

Large Class To Be Inducted Into Shrine With Impressive Temple Rites.

Enthusiasm over the prospect of inducting a large class of Unregenerate Sons of the Desert into the Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, nobles of Yaarab Temple, under direction of Illustrious Potentate Roy S. Mather, have made preparations for an old-time ceremonial session of the temple, to be held in the Egyptian room of the Shrine Mosque tonight.

The ceremonial will be presented by a spectacular parade of the six uniform units of the temple, headed by Potentate Mather and his divan, and terminated by a large delegation of nobles wearing the red fez of the order. The parade will form on the plaza above the site of the old Union Station, between Pryor street and Central avenue, and at 4:30 p. m. will move out Whitehall and Peachtree streets to the Shrine Mosque.

The Yaarab reception committee will be on duty at the mosque to welcome nobles of Yaarab and visitors from other temples, and distinguished visitors, a special program in honor of the "Oldest Hundred Member" club will be held, following which life members of Yaarab Temple, a new organization formed under recently enacted regulations, will be introduced.

The first section of the ceremonial, which will begin at 8:15 o'clock, will be portrayed by a star cast composed in the main of past potentates of Yaarab Temple. The second section, in which the nobles cross the hot sands of the desert to the Holy City of Mecca, is under direction of Noble Virgil W. Stewart, aided by a band of desert ruffians, who take delight in testing the fidelity of those who would become disciples of the true faith.

Potentate Mather has invited the potentates and prominent nobles of several nearby temples to participate in the festivities, and he urges all nobles who do not belong to any of the uniform units to wear the fez and march in the parade, which leaves the plaza at 4:30 p. m.

GIRL ADMITS PART IN SMITH EXTORTION*Miss Pavlick Describes Herself as an 'Unwitting Instrument.'

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Catherine Pavlick described herself today in court as the unwitting instrument of an extortion plot against Alfred E. Smith Jr. as the estranged Mrs. Smith sat and heard the story.

Miss Pavlick testified for the prosecution in the trial of Max D. Krone and A. Henry Ross, accused of blackmailing Samuel C. Stampleman, president of the Gillette Safety Razor Company of Boston, for $5,000. In that case, the state claims Krone and Ross, also under indictment for a $12,000 "shakedown" of Smith, used another young woman, Helen Conboy. The blonde witness testified that at together she got $1,000 from Krone under representations that it was from Smith—or less than one-tenth of the amount the prosecution claims was drawn from him.

Miss Pavlick, who told of going to a hotel with the son of the former New York governor after a party in May of 1933, said she signed a paper, containing accusations against Smith, without knowing what was in it.

After receiving the $1,000, she added, she protested she wanted no more money and wanted, instead, to "see Mr. Smith to thank him."

BAPTISTS' COMMITTEE NAMES DR. FAUST HEAD OF NEW DEPARTMENT*Atlanta Pastor Will Direct Evangelistic Work in State Next Year.

The executive committee of the Georgia Baptist convention yesterday elected Dr. W. H. Faust, pastor of the Gordon Street church of Atlanta, to head a newly-created department of evangelism.

Dr. Faust will assume his duties of co-ordinating evangelistic work of the various Baptist associations of the state early next January.

The committee also elected officers for the ensuing year, and re-elected the heads of all departments.

To Dr. Ellis J. Sammons, of the Vineville church at Macon, went the presidency. He succeeded Dr. J. C. Wilkinson, of Athens, who retired after serving the maximum term of five years.

Dr. Bungan Stephens, of the First church of Rome, became vice president. James W. Merritt was re-elected executive secretary and treasurer and the Rev. H. D. Warnock, of Forsyth, recording secretary.

Dr. O. P. Gilbert, veteran editor and manager of the Christian Index, was chosen for another term. Re-elected department heads include: T. W. Tipett, of Atlanta, secretary of Sunday schools; Edwin S. Preston, of Atlanta, secretary of Baptist training unions; and D. B. Nichols, of Athens, secretary of Baptist student unions.

The budget adopted for state missions provided for $34,000, part of the $7,000 increase over last year resulting from creation of the evangelism department.

Merritt reported progress in all departments during the past year. Dr. Faust's duties in the new department will include assisting associations and churches in evangelistic programs, arranging promotional conferences of pastors and lay leaders, organizing city-wide evangelistic campaigns, and conducting meetings throughout the state.

COLLEGES MUST LINK WITH LIFE, SAYS KERN

Too Many Are Mere Academic Retreats, He Tells Methodists.

Bishop Paul B. Kern, of Greerboro, N. C., addressing the closing session of the National Methodist Educational conference here yesterday, said "Colleges need to be more intimately related to life."

Our present colleges are too often "simply academic retreats where students and faculty members watch the rest of the world go by," he said. Asserting that "the academic world is dissatisfied with education," Bishop Kern said:

"Unless the denominational college can demonstrate that everything is well on the church campus no reason for their continuance exists."

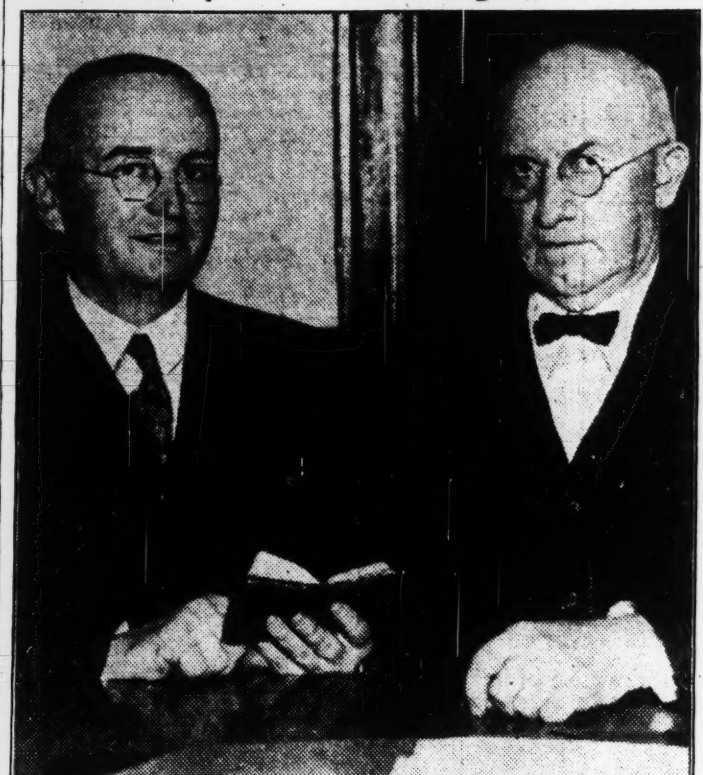

"We need to face our responsibility to offer every student an opportunity to come face to face with a Christian philosophy of life and to see what Christianity offers in the solution of the problems of a confused world."

Dr. Guy E. Snavely, president of Birmingham Southern College, another speaker on the closing program, told the assembled educators "church people should patronize and support church colleges."

J. H. Reynolds, of Hendrix College, Conway, Ark., calling Fascism and Communism the most likely threats to academic freedom, told Methodist educators the "danger" can best be met by independent leaders trained in church-related colleges.

"There are three agencies which found colleges, the church, capital and the state," Reynolds said at the closing session of the National Methodist Educational conference.

"Facing on the idea it has truth as a foundation, the church is fearless and tolerant. It permits the widest freedom in investigation. The independent college founded entirely upon capital is rather free until it begins to teach doctrines thought to be subversive of capitalism. The tax-supported college is the least free of all. It

GATE CITY ELECTS YEAR'S OFFICERS

Lodge Hears Max Kroloff in Sharp Attack on Hitlerism.

Dr. Joseph Yampolsky was unanimously elected president of Gate City Lodge, No. 144, at a dinner meeting held last night at the Stamford club, at which members and friends of the organization heard an address by Max Kroloff, of the speakers' bureau of the B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League.

Other officers elected were Dr. Irving H. Goldstein, first vice president; Rabbi Harry H. Epstein, second vice president; Julian V. Booth, third vice president; Harry Abelson, treasurer; Berry Rittenbaum, secretary; and Joseph M. Brown, the retiring president, monitor. The new officers will be installed in January.

Kroloff assailed Hitlerism as a "reactionary movement looking toward the abolition of liberty," and termed it "completely anti-American, anti-Christian and anti-Jewish."

MAN FATALLY BURNED WHILE SMOKING IN BED

O. S. Allen was fatally burned at 8 o'clock last night when he fell asleep while smoking a cigarette in a bed at a Marietta street hotel.

Taken to Grady hospital, physicians said he had suffered second-degree burns of the legs. He died at 1 o'clock this morning.

Fire apparatus extinguished the blazing mattress before the flames caused more damage.

DIVIDENDS AND BONUS ARE DECLARED BY BANK

Real Estate Company Also Makes Substantial Yule Presentations.

Surveying the best year's record in the history of the Fulton National Bank, directors yesterday at their regular December meeting, announced:

Increase of the surplus account by $150,000, which makes it now an even half-million and the total capital and surplus $2,000,000.

A regular semi-annual dividend of $3.50, half to be paid January 2 and the other half April 1.

A $2 extra dividend, which, added to the $7 regular dividend for the year, brings the year's total to $9.

Special bonus of a full month's salary for all officers and employees.

The Fulton National's total deposits now range around $23,000,000, according to Ryburn G. Clay, president of the institution, who declared the bank showed during the last year the most substantial growth in its history.

A total of more than $7,000 in Christmas bonuses was yesterday paid employees of the Draper-Owens Company, realtors. It was the first of firms engaged in this line to take action for the Christmas holidays.

All employees of the firm who have been with the company more than one year were given two months' salary bonus, plus $10 additional for each year they have been with the organization.

Department heads, in addition to their salary and commission, received a bonus of a certain percentage of the net profits of their departments.

It was also learned that everyone in the organization, with the exception of executives, who has been associated with Draper-Owens Company more than one year, received a salary increase for the year 1937 of at least 10 per cent.

Directors of the company declared an annual dividend of $3 per share on the capital stock.

U. S. JURY INDICTS 28 IN 'ESTATE' FRAUD

$3,000,000 Collected From 3,000 to Finance 'Baker Will' Probate.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 15.—(AP)—A federal grand jury returned three blanket indictments today accusing 28 persons of promoting a mail fraud scheme in which government officials charged more than $3,000,000 has been collected from 3,000 persons.

Postoffice Inspector Alfred T. Haworth, of Philadelphia, said: "For about 70 years rumors have been repeated about a mythical Jacob Baker estate in Philadelphia, which for various reasons has been unproven. Numerous heirs associations have been formed with the idea of forcing distribution of this non-existent estate. It is the biggest mail fraud case I believe the department has ever encountered."

Inspector Haworth said his department investigated estates of more than 200 Jacob Bakers in Pennsylvania and found them all closed.

BANK OF ENGLAND UPS GOLD RESERVE*Action Viewed as Designed to Protect Pound From Dollar.

LONDON, (Wednesday) Dec. 16.—(UP)—The Bank of England's decision to increase its gold reserve by $5,313,000 pounds sterling ($326,565,000) was interpreted today as a gigantic maneuver to protect the pound against any possible depreciation of the dollar.

The bank's surprise decision was announced in the house of commons yesterday by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, who described it as a "temporary measure."

He also announced that the bank will reduce its fiduciary issue by $5,300,000 pounds sterling ($304,000,000).

It was announced in financial circles that the British exchange equalization fund, from which the bars of gold probably will be bought, is facing a severe problem in stabilizing the pound sterling in terms of American dollars.

TO ACCEPT APPLICATIONS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—With the expiration tonight of the second deadline for workers to apply for federal pension account numbers, the Social Security Board announced applications would continue to be accepted. There was no indication of court procedure against delinquents.

MAN TEETERS 2 HOURS ON 18TH STORY LEDGE

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP)—For nearly two hours today, Maurice Nast teetered on the edge of the 18th story promenade roof of the Pennsylvania hotel, threatening to jump, while a great crowd below craned necks and every form of appeal moved him not. Finally, a proffered cigarette turned the trick. Off guard a moment as he lighted it, a grim fireman crept up and seized him.

Police, firemen, radio cars, an ambulance and an emergency squad were called.

Nast said he was 67. He was taken to Bellevue hospital for treatment.

SOCIAL SECURITY ACT TERMED INCOMPLETE

Congress Will Modify and Improve It, Ashe Tells Kiwanis Club.

The Social Security Act is a nationwide attack on the problems of economic insecurity and will be modified or improved by congress as needs arise, members of the Kiwanis club were told at their luncheon meeting yesterday by Dr. Bowman F. Ashe, regional director of the Social Security Board, whose headquarters are at Birmingham.

"It is not a perfect thing or in any way, a complete thing," Dr. Ashe told the Kiwanians. "One of the duties of the Social Security Board is to study the whole problem of social security and to present to congress suggestions as to modifications or extension of the act."

As director of the security board, Dr. Ashe handles six southeastern states, Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida and South Carolina. He is president of the University of Miami, in Miami, Fla., and is on leave of absence from his duties to carry on work for the Social Security Board. Seated at the speakers' table was Jesse Draper, president of the club, and the speakers were R. E. Haynes, of the Social Security Board, of Atlanta; Lon Livingston, Frank Boyce, of the office of the internal revenue collector; Eric Cooke, manager Atlanta office R. F. C., and L. R. Siebert.

Major Armin F. Herold, commander, said the planes were in sub-zero temperatures most of the 300-mile route.

AGED BAXLEY BANKER IS SLUGGED BY NEGRO

BAXLEY, Ga., Dec. 15.—(UP)—A negro who slugged Judge J. W. Tipples, 80, president of the Baxley State Bank, and robbed him of $17, was captured tonight by Sheriff H. L. Padgett.

The negro, Jim Dinson, was placed in the county jail.

Padgett said the negro came to the aged banker's home to beg and was given food and some clothing. Later he returned and told the judge a friend had sent him to "get $5."

When Tipples drew out his wallet and was about to hand the negro the money, Dinson snatched the pocketbook, slugged him behind the ear, and fled.

He was captured shortly afterward on a downtown street. Tipples was not seriously hurt.

PLAN TO MESH PACTS MOVES TOWARD VOTE AT AMERICAN PARLEY

Proposal Would Co-ordinate Existing New World Agreements.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 15.—(AP)—A revised United States project to co-ordinate five existing agreements into a workable plan to keep peace in the western hemisphere moved tonight toward approval by the inter-American peace conference tomorrow.

The formula, based on a proposal by Cordell Hull, won advance approval of 15 of the 21 delegations at the parley after being somewhat altered to suit Argentina.

Ratification Sought.

Its advocates expressed hope the project would have the unanimous sponsorship accorded three previous plans for joint consultation in the event of American or foreign war, non-intervention by a single nation in another's affairs and ratification by all the American republics of the existing inter-American peace pacts.

The conference was to meet in plenary session tomorrow to consider projects which had passed through committees and sponsors of the revised United States proposal voiced hope it would be ready for that session. The delay caused by Argentina's last-minute objections was partly responsible for postponement of the full session scheduled for today.

To co-ordinate the five existing peace instruments, the plan would set up machinery for consultation among American republics to arrange for conciliation in the event of an American war and to establish a mutual neutrality program.

Argentina, even in signing the revised draft today, made two reservations. These would exempt foodstuffs from any restrictions decided on by joint consultation in case of war and would prevent the agreement from interfering with a country's league of nations commitments.

The plan makes no mention of foodstuffs and provides that its signatories' obligations to any other peace organization shall not be affected.

While the proposal was gaining support rapidly, the peace organization committee decided to shelve a recommendation for an inter-American court of justice, suggesting it be held over for the regular Pan-American conference at Lima, Peru, in 1938.

An economic subcommittee side-tracked a Uruguayan plan for a meeting of American finance ministers to discuss monetary stabilization, changing the project to a resolution under which the Pan-American Union—which has headquarters in Washington—would consult all finance ministries if such a gathering seemed desirable.

F. D. R. Wires Parley.

President Roosevelt, sponsor of the parley who reached the United States only today after his trip for the opening of the conference, declared in a telegram read to the peace organization committee that "the conference is justifying the highest hopes of all of us."

The United States executive said the unanimous sponsorship given the plan for consultation in the event of war "will be an inspiration to all the peoples of the Americas."

"Good neighbors we are and good neighbors we shall remain," Mr. Roosevelt said.

SEEK TO STRENGTHEN SALARY-BUYING LAW

Yeomans To Draft Bill at Request of Chatham County Officials.

Attorney General M. J. Yeomans agreed yesterday to draft a tentative bill strengthening the state's salary-buying law.

Solicitor General Sam Cann and County Attorney John Bouhan, of Savannah, who requested Yeomans to undertake the matter, said the chief feature of the proposed new bill would be the securing of employers' consent before suits could be maintained on salary-buying contracts.

Yeomans' office said the draft of the bill, following general lines proposed by two Chatham county grand juries, would be forwarded to Cann and Bouhan when completed.

Cann said the matter of introducing the bill in the legislature had not been arranged.

Cann and Bouhan conferred with Yeomans late yesterday.

FLORIDA CANAL CASE TO BE HEARD TODAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Reasons for and against construction of the proposed $162,000,000 Florida ship canal will be aired tomorrow at a public hearing before the War Department Board of Engineers for rivers and harbors.

With sizeable delegations here from Florida representing both sides, the hearing will be held in the commerce department auditorium.

The hearing was ordered after a special board of army engineers held completion of the project, on which work was stopped when the 1936 session of congress failed to appropriate additional funds to carry it on, would be "justified in the public interest."

Canal proponents gathered at a banquet tonight. Speakers included General Charles P. Summerall, president of The Citadel; Senators Andrews and Pepper, Representatives Green, of Stark, and Caldwell, of Milton, and Captain J. E. Stodan, who in January will become adjutant general of Georgia.

IT'S WHAT YOU DO WITH THE METAL THAT COUNTS

AND WHAT A Glorious DIFFERENCE CRAFTSMANSHIP BRINGS TO STEEL BODY COMFORT AND LUXURY

"MAKE MOTORING SAFER!" Under the whiplash of this dramatic appeal, the steel body had its beginning—a basic, utilitarian beginning. But the completely substantial and fully comfortable steel body was still to come.

Loose-jointedness, tinniness, semi-solidity—all these had to be eliminated before a true craftsman could honestly say, "This is the steel body at its luxurious best!"

Yet that's just what you hear today of the new UNISTEEL TURRET TOP BODY BY FISHER—and there's many a good reason for that.

For here is the first integrally fused steel body of its kind—constructed in a way to give a car completely unified steel-on-steel solidity and security with comfort and luxury to a custom-built degree.

You ride not only with a seamless steel Turret Top overhead, steel underfoot, steel in front, and on your right and left—you ride also in a solidly silenced steel body in which all steel parts have been fused into one inseparable steel unit—with all the steel panels insulated against heat, cold and noise.

Naturally, a 100% solid steel unit like that has no weak spots. In fact, its unified structural strength is so great that weaving, rattling and wear are practically ended.

But solidity, safety and silence aren't all that make the Unisteel Body by Fisher the most talked of development in 1937 cars. Its increased roominess to make you more comfortable and the refreshing symmetry of its free-flowing style are such obvious features that you can readily spot them for yourself.

See this revolutionary advance in body construction and design. And remember, the Unisteel Turret Top Body by Fisher is available only on General Motors cars.

The inside story of Unisteel construction

16TH ANNUAL SESSION OF REAL ESTATE BODY TO OPEN IN COLUMBUS

Optimistic Feeling Expected To Prevail as State Group Convenes Today.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 15.—(AP)—An optimistic tone is expected to prevail at the three-day sixteenth annual convention of the Georgia Real Estate Association which opens here tomorrow.

James Draper, Atlanta real estate man, expressed the general feeling of leaders in the reality field throughout the state.

"Real estate activity in Georgia reached a record high this year, and every indication points to a better future."

The convention will open with a dinner and business meeting of officers, directors and members of the advisory council of the association tomorrow night. The first business session will be held Thursday morning.

Principal convention speakers and their subjects will include: Parker Webb, of Boston, Mass., "Preparing the Sales Plan for a Retail Business Property"; Walter W. Rose, of Orlando, Fla., president of the Association of Real Estate Boards, "Stimulating the Real Estate Market"; and Vincent P. Bradley, of Trenton, N. J., "Preparation for Better Business is Imperative."

Draper said tax reforms in Georgia are expected to be discussed informally.

A "speechless banquet" at the Country Club Thursday night will be one of the features of the convention. W. G. Morton, of Columbus, will act as toastmaster. A dance will follow the banquet.

Officers will be elected and a 1937 convention city chosen Friday morning. Friday afternoon the delegates will visit Fort Benning, army infantry school.

CLARKE SOLONS FAVOR STATE HIGHWAY PATROL

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 15.—(AP)—John R. Joel and Kent Hill, Clarke county representatives in the next legislature, say they favor creation of a state highway patrol system and the enactment of a driver's license law to reduce the danger of highway travel.

Hill, former member of Athens city council for many years, will be a "freshman" in the assembly, but Joel served in the 1935 session and was active in many committee and floor sessions.

Hill said he would vote for old-age pensions for Georgia if a bill is offered which contains a satisfactory revenue plan.

Asked for his views on prohibition law modification, he said he favored local option, on a county basis.

Joel said he favored a state liquor store plan, on county option.

The new legislator said he would work for a local bill to provide a retirement plan for Athens school teachers, and members of the police and fire departments.

He said he favored generally the legislative program advocated by Governor-elect E. D. Rivers. Joel said his views were similar to those of his colleague.

Both expressed themselves in favor of a $5 minimum tax for private passenger cars, but intimated they might vote for higher rates for trucks.

ITINERANT KILLED ON DARIEN ROAD

Many Accidents Occur on Coast Highway, 18 on One Bridge.

DARIEN, Ga., Dec. 15.—(AP)—An unidentified itinerant was struck and killed on the Coastal highway near the Butler Island dairy last night in a series of three accidents in one place.

There were no means of identifying the death victim and following an inquest at Upper Hill this morning the body was buried in a cemetery.

The man appeared to be about 65 years of age and weighed about 140 pounds.

O. W. Curran, of Macon, employed in the installation of a rural power line from here to Crescent, was injured yesterday when a pole fell and trapped him. He was taken to a Brunswick hospital.

Eighteen accidents on the Darien river bridge in 24 hours brought protests from civic leaders of Brunswick and Darien.

The Darien delegation reported the accidents were the result of the opening of the bridge—the opening of planks lengthwise on the bridge floor.

Highway maintenance officials said the planks would be covered with concrete to remedy the situation.

DEFENDERS WIPE OUT FASCISTS' REAR GUARD

Spanish Rebels Suffer Severe Defeat With Germans in Line.

MADRID, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Government forces wiped out the rear guard of the fascists attacking Madrid while insurgent commanders threw German troops into their front lines, defense officers declared tonight.

A government announcement said General Francisco Franco's troops were whipped and "destroyed" in flank action at Fresnedillas, 25 miles west of Madrid.

Insurgents were lured almost to the Socialist line before the government militiamen launched a counter-attack with machineguns, mortars and rifles, and drove them back, the official statement asserted.

Fascists also were repulsed at Valdemorillo, east of Fresnedillas, the government said.

Day-Long Battle.

This fighting in the rear of the Fascist besieging force was the first reported in some time. Most recent engagements have been in the outskirts of Madrid.

Defense officers asserted they observed German troops in the front lines of the fascists, attacking Boudilla del Monte, about nine miles west of the capital. The presence of the Germans, they said, was "duly checked."

The battle ebbed and flowed around the battered village, but the government said an insurgent advance had been beaten off and a counter-attack had been started after guns were massed in that sector.

The fighting raged throughout the day in a vast area west of the capital, with the insurgents at Valdemorillo reported attempting to link themselves with those at Robledo de Chavela, who were said to be cut off from the important Fascist stronghold of El Escorial, northwest of Madrid.

An all-British company was formed from the "international brigade" of foreigners who volunteered to fight for the defense of Madrid. Ralph Fox, a writer, was named head of the British unit.

A government announcement said the fascists lost 14,000 men in the fighting in University City, the campus section of northwestern Madrid which the insurgents have christened "the slaughter house." They penetrated into that district soon after the siege of Madrid began more than five weeks ago but have been almost at a stalemate there ever since.

In proclamations dropped on insurgent lines from government airplanes, the defense junta invited the Fascist soldiers to "surrender, with your arms if possible."

AYCOCK IS GIVEN LIFE FOR MURDER OF WADE

Thomas Aycock, negro youth, was sentenced to life imprisonment yesterday by Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton superior court, after the jury had found him guilty of murder and had recommended mercy.

EFFORTS OF EDUCATION TO COPE WITH TIMES DISCUSSED BY LEADERS

Dr. Sanford and President Caldwell Speak at American Dedication.

AMERICUS, Ga., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Efforts of education to meet the changing demands of civilization were discussed here today by Chancellor S. V. Sanford, of the university system, and President Harmon W. Caldwell, of the University of Georgia.

They spoke at the dedication of a $31,000 boys' dormitory at the Georgia Southwestern College.

"The system of education in the past has been based on training for leadership," Dr. Sanford said in his address.

"Today the definite line between leaders and others has been broken down. The effort of the people today is toward a unified and concentrated goal. The struggle now going on in all communities and among all races is a struggle to make progress and to have life more abundantly."

President Caldwell said life and progress of the twentieth century is "vastly different" from the agricultural civilization of the eighteenth century.

"Education of today is making a sincere and earnest effort to make necessary adjustments in our educational program," he said.

"Education from the common schools through graduate work in our universities is united to bring about the accomplishments of this common purpose."

The two educators spoke yesterday at the dedication of a $32,000 auditorium-gymnasium building at the South Georgia College at Douglas, and will appear again tomorrow at the dedication of a $39,000 boys' dormitory at Valdosta.

GEORGIA GLEE CLUB STUDIES SCHEDULE

Partial Plans Call for Concerts in 19 State, Florida Cities.

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 15.—Bryan H. Mathews Jr., Atlanta, business manager of the University of Georgia Glee club, today announced tentative arrangements for the appearance of the club in 19 Georgia and Florida cities.

Although no definite engagements have been made, Mathews named seven cities that have already requested appearances and 12 others where attempts are being made to secure engagements.

The seven cities which have requested performances are Winder, Albany, Cuthbert, Ashburn, Macon, Savannah, and Atlanta. Appearances are pending in Rome, Augusta, Tallahassee, Valdosta, Fort Benning, Americus, Columbus, Brunswick, Milledgeville, Gainesville, Thomasville and Statesboro.

Fugh Hodgson, director of the Glee club, hopes this year to inaugurate a plan whereby influential alumni will pay jointly for performances in their respective cities, thereby removing the necessity for admission charges.

"It will be a sort of alumni social affair rather than a glee club 'barnstorming' tour," Mr. Hodgson said.

"There will be an attempt to put into the akitas things that have happened or changes that have taken place in recent years at the University."

Final announcement of the Glee club membership will be made soon after the holidays.

ROY HARRIS TO SEEK AID FOR INSTITUTIONS

Augusta Legislator Says Conditions at State Hospital Are 'Deplorable.'

By JOSH SKINNER.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Roy V. Harris, Georgia legislative leader, said today he will push a program for alleviation of "deplorable conditions" at the State Hospital for the Insane and for improvement of other eleemosynary institutions during the approaching general assembly session.

Harris is unopposed for speaker of the house of representatives.

His first move will be to request house committees on eleemosynary institutions to make investigations during the 10-day organization meeting of the assembly and have recommendations ready for the beginning of the legislative session.

While he has centered his attention on alleviation of conditions at the State Hospital for the Insane at Milledgeville, his interest will embrace all institutions of the eleemosynary system.

Other branches are the school for the blind at Macon, the school for the deaf at Cave Springs, the training school for boys at Milledgeville, the training school for girls at Atlanta, the school for feeble minded children at Gracewood, and the sanitarium for tubercular at Alto.

Need for improvement in the insane asylum, he said, is greater than at the other institutions. This, Harris said, is because there is an "immediate and imperative demand" for caring for the mentally unbalanced, while other institutions maintain long waiting lists who are not forced to overtax their facilities to the extent, he declared exists at Milledgeville.

He pictured conditions at Milledgeville as "deplorable."

"I inspected the asylum one night at bedtime. Patients are so numerous and facilities so inadequate that many were forced to sleep on pallets lining both sides of the hallways. In some parts of the buildings as many as 150 women have to use the same bath and toilet."

WELFARE BODY TO SEEK NEW PROBATION LAW

LAGRANGE, Ga., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Miss Viola Burks, secretary of the LaGrange Welfare Association, announced a bill to allow superior court judges to place felons on probation will be introduced at the next session of the Georgia general assembly.

The present law limits probationary sentences to misdemeanors cases.

Miss Burks' announcement followed a meeting of the executive and legislative committees of the Georgia Probation Association here.

Miss Burks said a representative to introduce the bill had not been selected.

The proposed bill, Miss Burks said, will also contain a clause providing that a probation violator must serve only the remainder of his probationary period in jail.

Dairymen and other live stock men from all sections of the state visit the station to get ideas for the improvement of their herds and dairies.

The station dairy for several years has received a perfect score on all periodical inspections.

At the annual stockholders' meeting recently, officials reported net sales increased for the fiscal year for the fourth consecutive year. The company paid dividends of $432,000, or $8 a share, during the year.

ROBERTS SEES NEED OF FARM INCOME HIKE

COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Columbus Roberts, commissioner-elect of agriculture of Georgia, told the Columbus Kiwanis Club today that the most important thing to do in this state is to raise the purchasing power of the farmer.

Roberts said 70 per cent of the state's population is comprised of farmers and taken as a whole they constitute the largest buying power in the state, but taken individually they represent only $136 per year each, as against $260 a year average for the rest of the people.

CONSTRUCTION BEGUN ON NEW APARTMENTS

Elaborate Peachtree Road Building Will Cost $225,000.

Indicative of the increased activity in Atlanta real estate operations, work has begun here on the first large apartment building to be built in the city in the last several years. The structure, being erected on Peachtree road, near Peachtree Battle avenue, will contain 48 units and will cost approximately $225,000.

The apartment will consist of twin buildings, three stories each, facing each other with a court between. Each building will contain 24 units.

The site was purchased a few days ago by William T. Gayle Jr., of Atlanta, from the Peachtree Heights Park Company for $10,800 in cash. The lot fronts 200 feet on Peachtree road and has a depth of 400 feet.

The construction contract has been let to the Nichols Contracting Company, the designers, and they will have complete architectural supervision.

The apartment units will be of three and four rooms each, equipped with all modern conveniences. Tenants will be provided with 36 garages to be built at the rear of the twin buildings.

Attentions of two handsome sky-minded men put Miss Witt into the headlines last month.

She apparently couldn't make up her mind between Erick K. Balzer, steamship executive, and Pilot James A. Roe at Kansas City.

Leaving Balzer literally "waiting at the church" in Glendale, Cal., Miss Witt flew to Kansas City to meet Roe. Balzer gave flying chase as Roe came from an eastern tour of duty. She resigned as chief stewardess of Western Air.

Later, she said Roe hadn't proposed but admitted she wanted "to talk it over with Jimmy." Asked if she hoped Roe would propose, she said: "Oh, I think that would be very nice."

Then, the affair an object of national interest, she left Kansas City after talking with both Roe and Balzer and went west to "think things over."

Unshot of the romantic mixup: Miss Witt remained single, returned to Salt Lake City, was rehired as a stewardess.

Another stewardess joined in the day's developments when Esther Connors accompanied Pilot Fred Kelly

A week before the shooting Miss Morgan had taken an overdose of sleeping tablets. Just yesterday Sheriff Allan A. MacDonald removed a sharp, six-inch nail file from her jail cell, fearing she would try to harm herself.

In the early hours this morning Miss Morgan fashioned a silken noose out of her pajamas. Her body was found hanging from a shower-bath fixture.

To her father, Stuart Morgan, she wrote: "Please know that you gave me everything in the world, dad, everything. And on another page, 'Dad, I can't stand the pain and suffering I have caused you. May God forgive me.'"

3 WITNESSES TESTIFY EDITH ADMITTED STRIKING HER FATHER

Six Hours of Arguments Remain Before Jury Is Given Case.

WISE, Va., Dec. 15.—(AP)—The second trial of Edith Maxwell neared its close tonight with the state introducing witnesses to testify the 22-year-old school teacher admitted striking her father, Trigg Maxwell, with an iron.

In adjourning court until tomorrow, Judge Ezra T. Carter said each side would be allowed three hours to argue. The case probably will be placed in the hands of the jury late tomorrow.

The defense rested after placing 13 witnesses on the stand, in support of their contention Trigg Maxwell died of "natural causes" and not as the result of blows on the head, which "if inflicted by Miss Maxwell were struck only in self-defense."

Among the defense witnesses was Mary Kathryn Maxwell, 13-year-old sister of the defendant and the only one to testify of the three living who were in the little house when Maxwell met his death.

Neither Edith nor her mother, Mrs. Ann Maxwell, indicted jointly with her, testified in line with the defense strategy of preventing the state, in cross-examination, from eliciting from Edith her first trial statement, she struck her father with a shoe.

Three rebuttal witnesses for the commonwealth testified they heard Mrs. Catherine Jessie, of Norton, Va., say Edith admitted to her while she was in Wise county jail she "had killed father with an iron but didn't mean to do it."

Miss Louise Bolling said Mrs. Jessie made this statement to her. Corroborating this, Miss Lucille Blevins added that in another conversation with Mrs. Jessie, the woman told her Edith said she picked up an iron and threw it at her father "but she would not confess unless mother was brought into it."

Mrs. Pauline Hutchinson was the third witness to support the testimony. Mrs. Jessie, a defense witness, testified the only thing she heard Edith say was that her home was "unpleasant" at times and that her father "drank."

FARMING IS OUT OF RED AND MAKING PROGRESS, WALLACE TELLS F. D. R.

Secretary, in Annual Report, Urges Stronger Crop Control Power.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—A need for stronger crop control measures in future farm programs was reported to President Roosevelt today by his secretary of agriculture.

Reviewing administration farm policies of the past four years, Secretary Wallace advised the chief executive that "on the whole agriculture is out of the red and making progress toward financial rehabilitation." This, he said, was despite devastating droughts this year and in 1934.

Wallace's views were contained in his annual report on the Department of Agriculture.

Looking ahead, he reported a need for a federal crop insurance plan, a solution of farm tenancy problems, and a long-time national program to reduce drought damage.

These three matters are being surveyed by special commissions appointed by the President.

Scarcity Never Intended. Wallace said "scarcity never was intended and never approached" by administration farm programs because the goal of both farmers and federal officials was "adequate production for domestic requirements, plus whatever additional supply can be sold profitably abroad."

The original agricultural adjustment act, voided early this year by the supreme court, was termed by Wallace an "emergency effort."

He said the present soil conservation program, enacted by congress as a substitute for the AAA, was "weaker" but had "launched a positive attack on the dual problems of soil destruction and unbalanced cropping."

Probably in a period of good crops and high yields, the degree of crop control attainable under the present measure will not be adequate, he said.

Regarding a permanent long-time farm plan, Wallace said this must "achieve soil conservation, consumer protection and crop control together."

He described "profitable farming" as farming adjusted to the available market.

Collectivism Opposed. "It is not desirable to have either a peasant agriculture managed by tenants and laborers, or a collective agriculture run by the central government," he said.

The secretary reported cash income to farmers this year would reach $7,500,000,000, or 11 per cent more than last year, $1 per cent more than the depression low of 1932 and about 25 per cent less than 1929.

He said net income—what the farmer has after paying taxes, labor and production and depreciation costs—would be $1,500,000,000 this year, compared with $1,492,000,000 in 1932.

Gross income—cash income plus the value of products used on the farm—will amount to $9,200,000,000, he added, a figure 72 per cent larger than in 1932 and about 23 per cent below 1929.

Welfare Board and WPA Leaders Put an End to Relief Rift Reports

There Is No Quarrel Between Agencies, Frank Miller Declares; Miss Gay Shepperson Explains Situation Under Present Set-Up.

Reports of a conflict between the state WPA and the Fulton County Board of Public Welfare were halted yesterday by a statement from Frank Miller, executive director of the council, and Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state WPA administrator.

Miller stated positively that there is not and has not been any quarrel with the state setup, while Miss Shepperson confined her statement to an explanation of the situation, issued in the belief that city and county leaders may have misunderstood the arrangement under which the board of public welfare is now operating.

"The Board of Public Welfare has no quarrel with the administration of the WPA in Georgia," Miller said. "Published reports Monday afternoon put us on the spot on a question we never intended to be construed as it was."

Results of Curtailment. "During all the meeting Monday, our figures and arguments were brought out to show the drastic need of relief funds in Atlanta and Fulton county—it was not an attack on the WPA administration at all. The WPA is being curtailed gradually from Washington—a known fact—and this curtailment is causing more and more people to come to us for aid. We need money to care for them, and this is what we told the board."

"Our embarrassment with dealing with the WPA," he said, "is only that it is referring able-bodied men to us for relief now that it is curtailing its program, and under our set-up we are not equipped to provide for able-bodied men. The board confines its work to caring for those who are unable to care for themselves."

He pointed out that his work was separate from the WPA work and that the only connection was in certifying needy men who are able to work to the WPA office for jobs.

"I wish to correct the impression that I said the government is stopping relief," he continued.

"We have been put on the spot by this WPA being made an issue, while all the time we were merely pointing out some reasons why money must be provided for relief in Fulton county. It is all a mistaken general impression."

Miss Shepperson's Statement. Miss Shepperson, after showing that the WPA has been providing employment for an average of 10,000 persons a month in Fulton county at a pay roll expense of about $500,000 a month, said:

"Obviously the WPA program cannot give jobs to all persons who are physically or mentally able to work. The funds provided by congress are not sufficient to do this. However, in Georgia, we are allowed a proportionate share of the funds with which to employ a proportionate number of those in need of work, and Fulton county has received a pro rata share."

"There has been no cut in the work load in Fulton county in December, except in the referral to the Resettlement Administration of the drought workers who were temporarily assigned last summer. There will be no further cuts in January."

During the meeting, state school superintendent, said last night, Dr. Collins said "tenden will fill a vacancy created by the appointment of M. E. Thompson as director of teacher training and certification, and will have charge of supervising schools in 55 southwest Georgia counties."

Georgia Public Service Commission gathered data yesterday on past experiences of utility companies in a move to establish "reasonable and uniform" rates for service deposits by customers. The data was filed by all gas and electric companies on instruction of the commission.

Sentences for "plain drunks" who face Judge W. P. Middlebrooks, East Point recorder, will be either time on the "rock pile" or attendance of church or Sunday school for 12 months. The judge announced yesterday. The judge already has suspended sentence of three young men on the understanding they would attend church regularly for a year.

New air service for Atlanta was announced yesterday by Eastern Air Lines, extending passenger, mail and express service to Houston, Texas. The through service formerly stopped at New Orleans. The new service enables Atlantans to leave here in the morning, spend several hours in Houston and return to Atlanta in the evening.

Newly elected officers of the Piedmont Hospital Clinical Society were announced yesterday as Dr. W. W. Anderson, president; Dr. Carter Smith, vice president; and Dr. William E. Mitchell, secretary. Dr. Anderson succeeds Dr. John B. Duncan.

Gene Weems, shot in the chest Sunday night during an argument in a lunchstand on Marietta road, near a Chattahoochee river, was in a fair condition, according to reports late yesterday at Grady hospital. Weems operates a lunchstand, near by, at the stand of Jack Whitley, near by. Mrs. Whitley is under $1,000 bond.

St. Mark's Methodist Weekly Luncheon Club will meet at 12:30 o'clock today at the Davidson-Paxon tearoom. The luncheon today will be held in honor of the Rev. A. Carl Atkin, who is resigning as assistant pastor of the church.

Christmas Symbols Made by Mother To Adorn Jacquelin Fry's New Home

By Sally Forth.

JACQUELIN MOORE FRY will have lots of pretty things to remind her of Atlanta when she spends her first Christmas in her new home in Verona, N. Y. All of her Yuletide decorations were made by her mother, Mrs. Wilmer Moore, whose deft fingers fashioned a fat snow man for the center of Jacquelin's table. He is made of white cellophane straws, and each straw is tipped with red sealing wax, and black sealing wax was used to mark his eyes, nose and smiling mouth.

The snow man wears a jaunty silver cap with a pointed crown topped with a red tassel, and the hymn is edged with red cellophane fringe. A huge bow made of red cellophane is tied around his neck to add a brilliant touch to the snow man. Candles made of white cellophane straw tipped with red, and place cards made of the same glistening straws, complete the effective decorations that will be shipped today to Jacquelin to adorn her table on Christmas Day.

Little Frank Fry, the 15-month-old son of Frank and Jacquelin Fry, will receive a play rug crocheted by his Atlanta grandmother for his Christmas gift. The cream-colored wool was spun and carded at the home of Mrs. Jeff Davis in Toccoa, and the rug is oblong in its shape. Mrs. Moore embroidered on the rug in a colorful cross-stitch design all the letters of the alphabet, and the figures that illustrate such Mother Goose rhymes as "Little Boy Blue Come Blow Your Horn," "Little Tommy Tucker Sang for His Supper" and "Little Lucy Lockett Lost Her Pocket."

ATLANTA counts among her notable visitors this month Sir Walter Hamilton Kenean, minister of health for the British colonies, and his daughter, Lady Alison Kenean, of London. The Brits spent last Sunday here with their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stair, on Stovall boulevard, coming from New Orleans, where they spent several days en route to Washington, D. C., from Australia.

The British minister is an extremely interesting personage, as is his daughter, whom Sally hears will make her debut next year in London and who has invited her friend, Nancy Stair, popular debutante daughter of the Stairs, to be among the American visitors at this auspicious occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Stair entertained informally at luncheon for their distinguished visitors on Sunday at the Driving Club, their guests including Miss Mary Warren, James E. Warren, Dr. and Mrs. Lon Grove and Nancy Stair.

DEBUTANTE festivities during the holidays will be even gayer than usual because of the interesting visitors who will attend the many brilliant social affairs. Emily Evans will have as her guest on Monday a darling girl who already has lots of friends here made on previous visits. She's Callie Stringer, of Anderson, S. C., and she is a student at Randolph-Macon. The evening of her arrival Emily will entertain at a small buffet supper in her honor, and the attractive visitor will receive lots of attention during her visit which will be much too short, for Callie leaves on the following Wednesday to spend Christmas with her family in Anderson.

The day after Christmas Emily will have another charming visitor, Kay Joachim, of Washington, D. C. The friendship between the popular Atlanta debbie and the Washington belle began when they were students at Gunston Hall in Washington. They had perfectly elegant times when they were schoolgirls, and ever so often Kay would tell the head of the school that she wanted Emily to have dinner with her that evening, and out Emily would go to dinner AND a date. Which, of course, the students weren't supposed to have. Kay's Atlanta sojourn will extend until the day after New Year's, and anybody's guess as to how long she will be in the center of plenty of admiration.

Emily has been invited to visit Kay at her home in Chevy Chase on the 20th of January, and to be in the national capital for the inauguration. Emily's last thrill was to death over the prospect of going, but right now her thoughts are dwelling more on the coming Christmas affairs.

PALE green folders with red inscriptions form the colorful holiday motif featuring the invitations issued yesterday by Frances Alston and Lillian Ann McPherson for their tea-dance Saturday afternoon. Upon opening the folders, one is impressed with the artistic sketch done in deeper green of a couple dancing under a spray of mistletoe. On the opposite page the formal "bidding" to attend is done in red ink and ornamented with clusters of holly.

Will Make Debut at Tea-Dance on Saturday

Pictured above is Miss Catherine Campbell, lovely member of the 1936-37 Debutante Club and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morton R. Campbell. Miss Campbell will make her formal bow to Atlanta society on Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Vernon Skiles on Springdale road. She possesses a winsome manner and a personality which have won for her countless friends and her debut year has been marked by a series of affairs given in her honor. She attended Washington Seminary, where she was a member of the Pi Pi Club and took a prominent part in school activities. Her favorite hobbies are swimming and tennis. The sketch of Miss Campbell was made by Grace Scarboro from a photograph by Asano, Japanese photographer.

Christmas Visitors To Be Honored Friday by Mr. and Mrs. Maddox

Miss Emily Alsop, of Noroton, Conn., the lovely guest of her cousin, Miss Laura Maddox, and Miss Virginia Phelan, of Boston, Mass., the attractive guest of Miss Clara Haverly, will be honored guests at the dinner given Friday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Maddox. Twelve guests will be invited to meet the visitors by Mr. and Mrs. Maddox, who will entertain at Woodhaven, their home on Pace's Ferry road. Miss Alsop is a member of the debutante coterie in New York city, and has been prominently identified with the social and philanthropic activities of the group. Miss Phelan and Miss Haverly became acquainted on the North Cape cruise last summer and have kept in touch with each other since that time. Miss Phelan reaches Atlanta today to visit Miss Haverly.

Marriage Announced

Miss White Is Bride Of Edward P. Smith

Of social interest was the marriage last evening of Miss Kathryn Doris White and Edward P. Smith which was a quiet event taking place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Jim White, on Stewart avenue.

Rev. W. G. Crawley, pastor of the Stewart Avenue Methodist church, officiated at 8:30 o'clock in the presence of a limited gathering of relatives and friends of the young couple.

An improvised altar was formed in the living room of the home, and was built of quantities of palms, ferns and tall baskets filled with white gladioli. Placed at intervals amid the greenery were cathedral candelabra holding white burning tapers.

Prior to and during the ceremony a program of nuptial music was rendered by Foy Harris, soloist, and Rev. Joe Crawley the pianist. Their selections were "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me."

The bride was unattended and was beautifully gowned in a model of white lace, fashioned princess style. Her finger-tip veil fell in graceful folds and was fastened to her soft hair in halo effect. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

After the ceremony, Mrs. White entertained at an informal reception for her daughter and Mr. Smith. The table in the dining room was covered with a lace cloth and was centered with a bride's cake and on each side were played silver candelsticks holding burning tapers.

Mrs. Smith was gowned in black crepe and her flowers were pink roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. E. L. Smith, mother of the groom, wore a model of black satin and her flowers were white roses and valley lilies. Assisting the hostess in entertaining were Mrs. J. Gilbert White and Mrs. L. J. Brannberry. Mr. Smith and his bride will reside on Pierce street.

Number 807—In selecting your mate you should be guided by a person's intelligence rather than merely physical attraction. You are people who are calm and well balanced. You are not inclined to make many promises, but carry out those you do make. Your enemies need cause you no concern as the likelihood is that you will always outlive them. You need not fear monotony as there will always be plenty of excitement in your life.

Number 408—You are an excellent judge of human nature and display presence of mind in the face of danger. You like speculation, and at times are fortunate along these lines, but the indications are that these periods are only temporary, and bring no lasting benefits. Your best investments will be in government bonds and real estate, carefully selected. You would be tempted to go to extremes, but avoid them at all costs.

Number 308—You have a highly intuitive mind, but are likely to change your mind at a moment's notice. Your first impressions are usually your best ones. Avoid excessive of all kinds. You possess many latent abilities. Take stock of yourself, decide on your best talent, develop it, and you will be a successful and happy life. Now is the time to avoid overconfidence and overcaution.

Number 608—Practice regular habits of daily living, and your health will improve. You are clever in planning short cuts and economizing time. While others are puzzling over these problems, you are able to come to a conclusion.

Contract Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily instalments.

THIRD-HAND STRATEGIC BIDS.

The player who is third hand, when his partner already has passed and his own hand is below normal biddable strength, may reasonably expect that fourth hand will be strong enough to make a bid and that his opponents hold the major portion of the outstanding strength. In order to get in the first blow, to interfere with the opponents' bidding, and to indicate a favorable opening lead against an opposing not-rump contract, the third-hand player can make a strategic bid on a hand containing one and one-half to two honor tricks and a fairly strong trump suit.

A third-hand strategic bid is best described as an anticipated defensive bid, and is based more upon playing strength than upon honor tricks.

Third hand must remember that his partner will not know the bid is below the normal strength of opening bids and will respond as though to any opening bid. Of course an intelligent third hand will make allowance for the possibility of a weak third-hand bid, and will not jump to the sky just because he happens to hold a fair hand. But if the opener has too little, even a contract of one no-trump or two in a suit may be badly defeated.

Things That Make Women More Beautiful

(Posed by Anita Louie)

A Moist-Looking Lipstick, Very

Fine and Very Inexpensive

By MIGNON.
(The Mignon who writes this column does not sell, endorse or manufacture any cosmetics.)
Cosmetics cost money. There isn't a woman in the world who has any doubts about this. In fact, a woman in moderate circumstances must have a cosmetic recommended by some friend or adviser who has used it, before she dare waste the money on it. And that's where I come in—the friend of the cosmetic buyer.

Today I recommend a lipstick that costs about half of what most lipsticks cost and is something that you can buy and have lunch money left.

The stick is only enough to give the lips a moist look, it is the same size as other lipsticks and I have found that it stays on beautifully.

Don't forget what I told you the other day about using the flattened end of an orange-wood stick to draw your lips after the rouge has been applied so that you will get a straight line at the edge and can work the rouge with a downward stroke into the folds of the lips. A very smart Swedish actress is supposed to have discovered this trick and believe me, it is a good one.

These are three shades in the lipstick, light, medium and natural. That is enough unless you are a bound for makeup and are always trying out colors with your various gowns. This color experimentation in a lipstick, but not many women who go to work every morning have the time for it. When I say this lipstick is a honor, I mean it.

If you want to know where you can purchase any article mentioned in this column phone Mignon at The Constitution. Please do not write unless you live outside the city, in which case enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your advice in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield:

What do you think of a man who has broken the date of his marriage, not once, but twice? He owns his own home, his own business and his only excuse is that a drunken brother lives with him and his mother and might cause trouble between us. He says he wants to wait until his brother finds work which he has been, supposedly, looking for all of five years. Huh! We have been engaged for three years and before that I gave up dating all other boys since he is very selfish and wants to take me everywhere. Being selfish, he has always had his way about everything and, being good as gold to me, I have let him have it even to setting wedding dates and then calling them off. What hurts is I love him and want to marry him but can't because a not brother might disturb our peace. If I had to do over again I wouldn't tie myself up this way and I advise other girls to be sure first before they give their hearts to a selfish man and out to be sure the bouquets they offer are not made of poisonous weeds.

A FOOLISH CREATURE.

Answer:

Yes, foolish creature, it is a great mistake for a girl to practice faith, hope and charity to the extent that she ties herself up for a long engagement, let's go of her steady and settles down to wait the pleasure of a selfish man to name the wedding date. Yet who can blame her? In the early stages of her love-him-and-I-don't-know-the-man-is-selfish and she believes implicitly that he will be quite as impatient as she is to commit matrimony. And so he is, all the while being equal, among them that he doesn't get fed up with her.

To lose what looked to be a perfectly good fiancé is tough luck but it is worse luck to become cynical about men in general as a result of the loss. They are not so bad, as a rule. There are some weak brothers who never know their own minds and some wicked ones who deliberately deceive the ladies as a pleasant pastime and some wild ones who chase one skirt after another, promising everything, never coming across with the ring. But the average man that goes a-courting is setting out to find personal happiness; if any when he discovers he's on a false trail it is only natural that he should stall. His stalling is a psychic bid to the girl to unwind him and if she doesn't get the cue he finally makes a straight bid.

The next thing on the calendar of the girl that's been left waiting at the church is the search for another beau and he has to get in a good frame of mind if she's to get a good deal out of the new romance. Cynicism is a bad mixture of bitterness and doubt, doesn't inspire love, which is sweetness and light. Cynicism eats away the heart of a girl and sets away a mental and once that disease, common aftermath of matrimonial disappointment, gets in its dirty work, a girl's chances for romance are greatly reduced. ## My Day

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Monday.—I left the hospital last night feeling much more cheerful, for the doctors felt that there was a chance that Franklin Jr. might not have to have an operation after all. In another two or three days, I think, they will be able to be a little more definite and then we can be more certain about our plans.

People are so very kind, however, that sometimes it seems almost worth while to have unfortunate things happen. Johnnie was called by a very dear friend who had heard of a new medicine which might be of use to Franklin Jr. I had a letter from a lady I do not know at all, telling me of a treatment which had helped her, and inclosing a doctor's article.

An old friend of the boys and mine, called me and told me that if Franklin Jr. was going to be alone in the hospital on Christmas Day, he would be delighted to come in and spend the day and eat his Christmas dinner with him so we would not feel that Franklin Jr. was alone. I could almost have wept from sheer appreciation of the kindness of one's friends.

Johnnie took me to the plane at 8:30 last night and we were greeted by so many flashing bulbs that after I got my bags out and paid for my tickets, I usually walked back toward the car with him and managed to hide behind a large stone pillar for a second so I could kiss him goodbye without being photographed in the act. I am not quite sure, however, that I succeeded.

Though the day was cold, raw and snowy in Boston, when I took off the night was clear, and we had a marvelously smooth trip. As I got off at Newark to change planes, two very solicitous gentlemen offered me a lift to the dispatcher's office with me, and to do anything they could about my bags, etc.

Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Elkin Honor Miss Goddard at Supper-Dance

Heralding the colorful and festive Christmas season was the brilliant supper-dance given last evening at the Piedmont Driving Club by Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Elkin in compliment to their namesake, Miss Elkin Goddard, beautiful debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Goddard.

The receiving line stood in the lounge room which was artistically decorated with quantities of holiday foliage. The handsome mantle was flanked with palms and fern and poinsettias. The console tables placed on either side of the mantle were graced with bowls of red roses and white narcissi and outlined with ropes of smilax and maiden hair fern.

Mrs. Elkin received her guests wearing a handsome model of aquamarine metal cloth threaded in silver which accentuated her blond loveliness. Completing her costume was a cluster of orchids which she wore on her shoulder.

Miss Goddard's piquant beauty was offset by an exquisite model fashioned of red lace combined with red net. The long full skirt was floor length and fell in graceful folds from the becoming tight-fitting waist. In the logic quantities of palms and poinsettias were used in the effective decorations. The punch tables were placed on either side of the loggia, and the bowls were embedded in a mound of red roses and white narcissi. The lights were covered with red tulip shades which cast a glow over the scene.

Placed on the steps leading into the ballroom were arrangements of palms, and arising from the greenery were mounds of red poinsettias.

The handsome ballroom presented a marvelous picture of Yuletide festivity. The white colonial columns on either side were entwined with ropes of laurel and topped with red and silver balloons. Suspended beneath each arch were large red cellophane bows filled with silver and red balloons. At the far end of the club a glowing fire burned in the massive fireplace.

The mantle was ornamented by two seven-branched candelabra holding burning tapers and adding a festive note was the huge holly wreath, hung above the mantle, and ornamented with a cluster of poinsettias tied with red satin ribbon. In the dining room quantities of palms banked the corners, and the long buffet tables were adorned with mounds of red roses. Assisting the hosts in entertaining the guests, who included several hundred members of the married and unmarried members of society were Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Goddard, Dr. and Mrs. Dan C. Elkin, Dr. and Mrs. Phinizy Callahan, Mr. and Mrs. Alex MacDougall, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Harper, Mr. and Mrs. Rix Stafford, Mrs. Charles A. Sisson, Mrs. Charles McAllister, Mrs. Edward Inman, Mrs. Samuel M. Inman, Mrs. William P. Hill, Mrs. James J. Goodrum, Mrs. Don Pardee, Mrs. Edward Van Winkle, Mrs. Fannie D. # Tech Banks on Speed, Passes and Deception Against Bears

Before I saw him coming he was in the door of the office and had put his wet overcoat over the back of a chair and had sat down in another.

"Been hunting yet?" he asked.

"I really haven't had time. You see, it's been a busy fall. And as a matter of fact, I'm very busy right now."

"I can see that. It's a bad idea, being busy. You don't have time to hunt."

"Well, you see, there's been a lot going on, and—"

"I knew you'd be interested in those dogs of mine," he said. And lit his pipe.

"Is this some of the litter from that lady dog of yours that pointed the bass that had swallowed the quail?"

"That's the same one. I've sold some of those dogs."

"I got settled. He had his pipe going."

"Had an awful lot of trouble shipping one of them," he said. "That's the one I named Joe Bob. He's a demon and white like his mammy."

"The fellow that bought him from me came down to get him. I showed him how those dogs could point. They got the birdiest noses of any litter I ever saw."

"You know that?"

I nodded. There is no use disagreeing. Not when he has taken a seat.

"Well, this fellow lived in Cleveland and he came all the way down there. He saw the dogs. And he took a liking to Joe Bob. 'That's the one I want,' he said. And so he took him."

"We got him fixed up and took him to the train. We put him in the express car and the fellow there was a good fellow and he let him violate the rules and didn't require a crate for him nor a muzzle. Just tied him to a trunk."

"This fellow that bought him," he said, "was crazy about him. And he told me he was going back to look at him every few hours."

HE PAUSED FOR A MOMENT.

He paused for a moment and stoked up his pipe.

"Two days later," he said, reflectively, "I got a call from this fellow at Cleveland. He was tickled to death. And I am going to tell it to you just like he told it to me. Just exactly."

"He was tickled to death about that Joe Bob dog."

He said that the first time he went back there to look at the dog the dog was on point. He thought maybe the train was passing some birds out along the right of way but the train went on and this dog was still on point.

"He said he noticed the dog would change his position every now and then. Of course I had told him about that dog, what a nose they had for birds. So, he asked the express man if there were any quail in the car, maybe being shipped somewhere. But the fellow said there wasn't any."

"After a while this head express car man went on out and the dog quit his point and laid down. This fellow that had bought Joe Bob was pretty puzzled, but he went on back to his car."

IT WAS SOME HOURS LATER.

"It was some hours later when he got back. And he said he nearly fell over when he got back there because this dog was on point again."

"He searched the car and couldn't find any birds. He was about to give up on it but after a while the dog left his point and so he went back."

"It happened again," I suppose.

"Yes, sir," he said. "How'd you guess it? It happened again and this time this fellow that had bought Joe Bob decided he'd get a few notes on the subject because he knew he might have trouble getting someone to believe him."

"So, he said he got out his pen and note book and he asked this head express car man for his name so he could use him for reference in the matter."

"Bird is my name," said the express car man. And then this fellow said he knew. That dog came from the birdiest litter in the world and he would point any sort of a bird, even a man named Bird. He just knew."

"Naturally this fellow was so tickled he called me up to tell me about it."

I shifted uneasily in my chair.

"If you don't believe it," he said, "I can show you the very telephone report with this call on it."

HE WANTED TO BUY ANOTHER ONE.

"And besides that," he said, "I got other proof. This fellow wanted to buy another one but I had sold Judy, too. That was that liver and white dog."

"She had just as good a nose as this Joe Bob dog. I never did see such a litter. All of 'em took after their mammy. And you know what a nose she had."

"This fellow that bought Judy sent his boy over after her. The boy had a truck with a crate in the back. And the minute he came on the place this Judy dog pointed him."

"Boy," I said, "you take those birds out of your pocket."

"I ain't got no birds about me, boss," he said. And I looked and sure enough he didn't have."

"Well, sir, this had me stopped. There was that Judy dog standing there on point."

"Have you been around any birds?" I asked him, thinking maybe he had a feather or two on his clothes somewhere."

"I sho ain't, boss," he said.

"I just started walking around looking at that Judy dog and at him and then I saw it."

"The bird?"

"Yes, sir, how'd you know that? There was a bird there all right. And where do you think it was?"

"I really wouldn't know. I suppose it was some distance away and—"

"No, sir," he said. "This boy had on an old pair of overalls and he had a patch in the seat of them. He had patched them with a piece of sacking from a sack of dog food and the trade mark was still on the patch. The trade mark was the picture of a quail. I never saw such a nose as those dogs—"

"You mean that dog had pointed the picture of a quail?"

"Yes, sir. Exactly. And don't you look doubtful."

"If you'll come down to my place I'll show you the very spot where we were standing."

"And he took his coat and relit his pipe and went out. 'You really ought to go hunting,' he said."

SMITHIES CARD TOUGHER FOES ON GRID FOR '37

Erie, Marist Dropped; Columbia, Columbus Industrial Added.

By Roy White.

Tech High's 1937 football team will play at least two new teams with a probable third to be added later, it was announced Tuesday by W. O. Cheney, principal of Tech High. The schedule at present calls for 10 games, with a Thanksgiving Day game to be added as soon as negotiations with five schools are completed.

Columbia, S. C., annually one of the strongest high school teams in South Carolina, and Columbus Industrial, from Columbus, Ga., are the new teams already scheduled. And negotiations are under way with teams from Dallas, Texas; Norfolk, Va.; Miami, Fla.; Louisville, Ky., and St. Louis, Mo., for the Thanksgiving Day game.

Louisville and Norfolk have repeatedly sought games with Tech High, but conflicting dates already contracted for have prevented games in the past. And with five games tentatively arranged, Tech High will accept only the best offer, on a home and home arrangement.

ERIE IS DROPPED.

Erie Academy, of Erie, Pa., which completed a two-year contract in opening the 1936 schedule, Russell High, of East Point, and Marist College, a member of the N. G. I. C., were dropped from the 1937 card. Both Russell and Marist were beaten several touchdowns last year and Cheney accepted new teams in their places for 1937. A conflict in dates prevented re-scheduling Erie Academy next year.

Savannah High, always in the front ranks of the G. I. A. A., will open Tech High's 1937 card, Friday night, September 17, at Ponce de Leon park. Savannah defeated the Smithies, 13 to 6, last year, and it is the toughest opener ever scheduled by Tech High.

And that is only the beginning, for Decatur, co-champions with Commercial in the N. G. I. C., Etowah, one of the best in Tennessee, G. M. A., Richmond Academy, of Augusta; Commercial High, Columbus, S. C.; Asheville, N. C.; Columbus Industrial and Boys' High follow in successive order.

TOUGHEST CARD.

It is the toughest schedule ever arranged by Tech High, with not a single warm-up game. Those teams which appeared a bit weak in 1936 will be considerably improved next year.

And only one of the games, that with Columbia, S. C., will be played away from home, giving Atlanta fans one of the choicest prep schedules ever offered here.

Tech High won eight, lost three and tied one last year for a decided improvement over the 1935 season. And with many of the 1936 players returning, the Smithies are looking forward to an even stronger eleven next year.

September 17—Savannah at Ponce de Leon.
September 23—Decatur at Ponce de Leon.
October 1—Etowah at Ponce de Leon.
October 8—Richmond Academy at Ponce de Leon.
October 15—Richmond Academy at Ponce de Leon.
October 21—Commercial at Ponce de Leon.
October 28—Columbia at Columbus, S. C.
November 5—Asheville at Ponce de Leon.
November 12—Columbus Industrial at Ponce de Leon.
November 19—Boys' High at Ponce de Leon.
Thanksgiving—Pending, at either Dallas, Texas; Norfolk, Va.; Miami, Fla.; Louisville, Ky., or St. Louis, Mo.

TECH FIVE PLAYS PRACTICE AFFAIR

Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets meet the Sugar Bowl Georgia Evening News team tonight in one of Tech's preliminary practice games on the jacket court at 8:30 o'clock.

In spite of the fact that the odds are all in favor of the Techs, "Bill" Layton's Evening School Redbirds should put up a strong defense. The Redbirds, in the Metropolitan Athletic League, have won all nine of their games this season and are considered one of the strongest teams in this locality.

This will be one of the first games of the practice season for the Tech boys.

PURPLE SQUAD GETS LECTURE

Boys' High's football team took advantage of the cold rain Tuesday and spent the afternoon in the lecture room going over some defects which showed up in a long scrimmage Monday.

Coaches Doyal and Keith drilled at length on some new plays which will be used against the Lanier Poets Saturday afternoon at Ponce de Leon park.

Although at present there is no championship in the balance, J. L. Skinner, president of the G. I. A. A., announced Monday afternoon that the winner of Saturday's game may be crowned the G. I. A. A. champion, at an association meeting early in January.

Riverside has appealed a Lanier High protest to Mark Smith, president of the Georgia High School Association, and a decision on that appeal is expected to be rendered within the next few days.

Meanwhile both Boys' High and Lanier High are speeding up preparations for the Saturday afternoon game at Ponce de Leon park. And only a National Guard unit or a cordon of city and county police will keep the game from being played.

Columbus Seeks Army for Game

COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Columbus Industrial, which has started a movement to bring the Army team here next season for a contest with some southern eleven. Letters have been written to Senators George and Russell and to the athletic association at West Point urging the scheduling of a game.

The point is made that the Infantry school is located at Fort Benning near here and that many alumni of the military academy are stationed there.

They Figure in Tech's Scheme of Super Speed

Scrappy Edwards, left, and Jimmy Moore, two pony backs, will be turned loose to trot against the Golden Bears of California Saturday week at Grant field. Illness and injuries make it imperative that the Jackets stress speed, passing and deception. Power plays, for the most part, are out. For Tech does not have the power to operate them.

Sugar Bowl Sells Last Grid Ticket

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 15. (AP)—The Sugar Bowl football committee announced today a complete sell-out of tickets for the New Year's Day game between Louisiana State and Santa Clara.

A crowd of about 40,000 spectators is expected.

The committee said it understood L. S. U. had about sold all the tickets sent there. About 2,500 tickets were sent to Santa Clara for sale.

Forgetfulness Cured Nat Thornton's Knee

Ex-Southern Tennis Champ Forgot Rubber Bandage One Day, Trouble Disappeared.

By Jack Troy.

Nat Thornton, who was a southern tennis champion in 1907-08-13, and by Bryan M. Grant Sr., doubles titleholder in 1906-15-18, was talking about football officials.

That is to say, Mr. Thornton was imploring a small audience in the training quarters at Georgia Tech to explain why it was officials had a tendency to take the game away from the players.

"Why is it," he asked, "that at most of the games we fans barely settle back to watch a good contest when we're rudely interrupted by the incessant toot of a whistle? There are times when it seems we must have made a mistake and gone to the circus, instead. So many whistles are blowing at once you are bound to look around for a calypso."

GAMES THE THING.

"My friends tell me I take such things too seriously, but I'll be dogged (or words to that effect) if I go to a football game to see a show by the officials, especially when it is, ordinarily, such a poor show."

"I'll tell you the truth, I could name any number of decisions that past season that palpably were incorrect. And they truly had a very definite bearing on the games in question. However, I do not wish to be put in the light of second guessing."

"I simply think officials ought to give, or be made to give, the game back to the players."

With that off his chest, so to speak, Mr. Thornton glanced around at the rubbering table where Big Phil Chance was having a bandage applied to his injured knee.

TOUGH ON KNEES.

"It's tough on knees," he ventured. "Yes, it is," replied Coach Alex. "That reminds me," said Mr. Thornton, pulling up his trouser's leg. "See that scar?"

"Uh, huh," said Coach Alex. "How'd you get that?"

"Funny thing, I was playing basketball many years ago and hit my knee against a wall. Broke the knee cap all to pieces."

"Rather you now?"

"No, that's what I was getting around to," Mr. Thornton continued.

FORGOT BANDAGE.

"I used to wear a rubber bandage. Even then it gave me trouble. Then one day I was playing tennis in New Orleans. The match was almost over when I suddenly remembered I had forgotten to put on the rubber bandage. It hurt it again and the knee hasn't bothered me one bit to this day."

"You were lucky," Coach Alex ventured.

"Yep, guess I was lucky," Mr. Thornton responded.

"See you around again."

Decatur High Girls Whip Griffin, 48-11

Decatur High girls defeated the Griffin High ladies, 48-11, yesterday in a fast basketball game at the Boys' High (Decatur) gymnasium. A sharpshooting forward, Louise Broyles, led Decatur with a dazzling exhibition that netted 32 points. Kelley sank seven of the losers' eleven points.

Home Folks Honor Clarence Ace Parker

PORTSMOUTH, Va., Dec. 15.—(AP) Clarence "Ace" Parker, All-American grid star of Duke University, had plenty of reason today to believe he rated ace-high as an athlete with Portsmouth fans.

More than 400 admirers of the Portsmouth-born youth attended a meeting here last night to pay him tribute. Speakers included Alan Gould, Associated Press sports editor, who said Parker ranked with the top-notchers among football stars.

Louis Will Meet Friday's Winner

BOSTON, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Joe Louis has been signed to meet the winner of Friday night's Tony Shucro-Al McCoy New England heavyweight championship fight here, Matchmaker Rip Valenti announced tonight.

Valenti said the bout would be staged at one of the Boston baseball parks next summer and that he had agreed to pay the Detroit Bomber 40 per cent of the gate receipts and his opponent 20 per cent.

The bout would be Louis' first professional appearance here.

MOORE, EDWARDS BEING GROOMED FOR END RUNS

Konemann Used on Line Smashes, Passing, Kicking and Wide Sweeps.

By Jack Troy.

Tech's Jackets more than ever now must depend on speed, passes and versatility in the post-season game with California's Golden Bears on December 26, which happens to be no farther away than Saturday week.

The Jackets cannot hope to amass any real power. So power plays, for the most part, are out.

That's why, for instance, the offense has been changed around. But that move was made even before Captain Mit FitzSimons was stricken and at a time when it was thought possibly Phil Chance might be available.

DIFFERENT ATTACK.

Jacket fans will see a radically different style of offense on the home eleven's part. Passes may be thrown by Dutch Konemann, Fletcher Sims, Scrappy Edwards or Jimmy Moore. They may be caught—not the same passes, of course—by Konemann, Sims, Edwards or Moore. And Bill Jordan, Ed Jones, Jim Morgan, George Smith or Red Collins.

Tech is not leaning so much to razzle-dazzle as forward passes following intricate and baffling maneuvers back of the line.

With speed as one of the keywords, Coach Alexander is grooming Scrappy Edwards and Jimmy Moore, jackrabbit backs, for the wide sweeps, along with Konemann.

SIMS GETS CHANCE.

Fletcher Sims, who carried the ball well against Georgia, is being given plenty of opportunity to advance it in scrimmage. Sims runs mostly off tackle, or does he? That question is advanced just in case they read the paper out in Los Angeles.

Old Koon, the Konemann, is passing kicking and running. 'Tis been said he can't run anywhere except around end, but in scrimmage this week he has shown a tendency to rip through the line.

The Flying Dutchman will offer plenty in the way of versatility. The Jackets, crippled as they are, nevertheless have looked rather smooth in scrimmage. Hence there may be a bit of confusion in the ranks of the Golden Bears when the Jackets take the ball and start pitching, kicking or running with it.

Jackets Listen To Alex Lecture.

Yesterday being the sort of day it was, Georgia Tech football players did not even dress for practice. They attended, instead, an hour lecture by Coach V. A. Alexander which dealt with their own plays and some of the formations they may expect to see used by the California Bears.

With Charley Preston recovering from an attack of flu, Coach Alex took no chances with the remaining members of the squad. He didn't see anything to be gained and maybe some players, possibly, to be lost. So there was only a lecture, which accomplished a very good purpose, at that.

The word from Captain Mit FitzSimons, who is recovering from a bad leg infection, was that he spent a comfortable day. The Tech captain has been in a hospital since Sunday night.

Negotiations for the contest, which will be played in the new Rosecrans stadium on October 26, were begun in 1935.

THEORY OF GANG WAR AS MOTIVE IN KILLINGS IS UPHELD BY SLEUTHS

Engelbert Sees No Evidence of 'Muscling In' by Out-of-Town Crew.

Detectives yesterday were unanimous in the opinion Solicitor General John A. Boykin is correct in terming the gunplay that resulted in the death of three persons early Saturday morning "the beginning of a gang war in Atlanta."

Investigation activities were practically at a standstill yesterday as one of the detectives assigned to the case, M. B. Johnson, was out of town.

His partner, Richard Engelbert, agreed the gunplay was connected with a lottery war, but declared, "there is nothing to show an out-of-town gang is trying to muscle in."

Solicitor Boykin announced Monday he will investigate the shooting and indicated a thorough probe of gangland activities will probably be instigated as a result of the Saturday shooting.

The Ransom, the fourth participant in the shooting, is reported to be improving at Georgia Baptist hospital. His brother, Nick Ransom, died early Monday morning from wounds received in the affray. Two others, V. H. Billingsley and Spencer Mitchell, were instantly killed in the R. E. House Bonding Company building, where the shooting took place.

Detective Lieutenant C. E. McCarty expressed the belief an alleged sale of fake jewelry to Nick Ransom figured in the case.

The services will be conducted by the Rev. W. H. W. A. A. Shelton, B. F. Fraser, W. T. Hummcutt and R. L. Russell, of Gainesville. The body will lie in state from 10 to 11 o'clock at the church.

16 PLEAS FOR PARDON ARE RECEIVED IN DAY

Applications Hit New Peak as Yule Season Fast Approaches.

The usual Christmas rush for pardons was definitely on yesterday when the number of applications for clemency received in a single day reached a new high for 1936. Solicitor General John A. Boykin's office disclosed.

Yesterday, notification of 16 applications were received at the solicitor's office. For the past two weeks they have been coming in at the rate of from two to six each day, assistants revealed. Solicitor Boykin has reviewed pardon of 46 applicants within the past two weeks, it was revealed.

Among yesterday's applications was one from Arthur M. Cochran, serving a life term for the slaying of Deputy Sheriff V. J. Yarbrough July 24, 1921, during a liquor raid on a garage off Ponce de Leon avenue near the baseball park. He escaped at the time and remained a fugitive until January, 1935, when he was arrested under the name of Morgan in New Madrid, Mo. He was convicted April 10, 1935, and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Another application was one received from Albert Wheeler, one of several men convicted in September 1935, for a series of grocery store holdups in Atlanta and adjoining communities.

Boykin announced he will protest pardon for both.

J. CARTER COOK DIES AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

Native Georgian Was Outstanding Authority on Fire Insurance Law.

J. Carter Cook, member of one of the oldest families of Georgia and for 22 years general counsel for the Fire Companies Adjustment Bureau, died late Monday night at his residence, 1623 Oakdale road, after a short illness.

A native of Columbus, Ga., Mr. Cook was born at the family's ancestral home, "Belmont," where the Cooks have resided for 110 years. He was a great-nephew of General Benning, for whom Fort Benning was named.

A graduate of Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., Mr. Cook was appointed in 1904 by President Theodore Roosevelt as supervisor of the five civilized Indian tribes in Oklahoma, then the Indian Territory. He moved to Muskogee, Okla., and remained as supervisor for eight years.

Upon his retirement from that office he conducted a private practice of law, begun originally in Birmingham, Ala., as a member of the firm of Post and Cook.

Mr. Cook married the former Miss Katherine Theodora Dudley, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Ambrose T. Dudley, of Henderson, Ky., the ceremony taking place in Birmingham.

For two years he acted as state chairman of the Republican campaign committee of Alabama.

He came to Atlanta in 1914. He was a member of the Capital City Club for 20 years. He had specialized in fire insurance law and was recognized as one of the outstanding authorities on the subject in the south.

Mr. Cook is survived by his wife; two sons, J. C. Cook Jr., Richmond, Va., and T. Dudley Cook, and a brother, Manning P. Cook, San Francisco.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Spring Hill chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son, with the Rev. W. W. Memminger officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

DRIVERS' LICENSE LAW URGED BY JUDGE WOOD

Jurist Asks 'Law With Teeth' While Sentencing Driver.

A drivers' license law "with teeth in it" was urged yesterday from the bench by Judge J. M. Wood in Fulton criminal court.

In passing sentence on Henry G. White, of Ben Hill, for drunken driving, Judge Wood declared the state legislature should pass a strict drivers' license law and provide a state highway patrol as a means of materially reducing the number of drunk drivers on the highways causing accidents.

White was charged with driving a truck near Ben Hill while under the influence of liquor and with crashing into two cars. He was fined $50 and given six months on the chain gang, the sentence to be suspended on payment of the fine.

BOGUS ARMY OFFICER HELD FOR SWINDLING

Impersonation of an army officer and cheating and swindling charges against Walter R. Clark, of Stone Mountain, caused him to be placed under $500 bond for federal grand jury action when he was given a hearing yesterday before United States Commissioner Ed S. Griffith.

Registered at a downtown Atlanta hotel as Lieutenant W. R. Clark, he had the management cash a $20 check, according to the arresting officers.

The check, it is said, proved worthless and Clark returned the money to the hotel, but the case was reported to federal officers. Clark served as a second lieutenant in the World War and had a commission in the reserve corps which expired in 1926, it was said.

AUTO ARSON CHARGE LANDS NEGRO IN JAIL

An unsuccessful attempt at arson held Joe Prater, colored, in Fulton tower last night due to his inability to handle a $1,000 bond assessed by Recorder A. W. Callaway.

Prater's automobile, it was said, was in bad need of repair, and he had no money. He invested what little he had in a can of kerosene, soaked the car thoroughly and applied a match, according to Fire Marshal M. H. Carter, who arrested him.

Prater is being held for superior court action.
